Pedestrians found walking city streets a chill prospect in the face of winter winds today as gusts from all directions threatened equilibrium and headgear of men and women alike. Weatherman promises more of the same for Wednesday, but possible relief by Wednesday night. Candid shots of harried citizens were taken by Times photographer Bill Halkett on Government Street near the post office.

RCAF Blames Jet Crash On Collision; 2 Saved

EVERYTHING UNOFFICIAL —FOR 9 YEARS

BARRIE, Ont. (CP)—Barrie's town council learned Monday night it apparently has been sitting unconstitutionally for the last nine years.

During the first 1957 meeting councillors had occasion to refer to rules of procedure printed in 1937.

The first rule states: The town council shall meet in the fire hall. Since 1948 council has met in offices across the road from the fire hall.

Dulles Warns Again Ike Plan Vital to Peace

WASHINGTON (CP)—State Secretary Dulles said today that if Congress turns down President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine events may get out of hand with "a very great likelihood" U.S. troops may have to fight there.

He also said the U.S. could not go into partnership with Britain and France in any Middle East plan.

"I cannot think of anything that would more surely turn the area over to international communism than to go in there hand in hand" with Britain and France, Dulles said.

Dulles was asked at the second day of Senate committee hearings what countries the U.S. would call on for help if the contemplated Eisenhower doctrine got the Americans into war.

Dulles replied that in case of war the U.S. expected to get help from the 42 nations with whom it has collective security agreements. Britain and France would come under NATO.

Jail Terms Given Two Men Captured By Armed Loggers

PORT ALBERNI — Albert John Alexander and Wilfred Ernest Coull, who were held at gunpoint Sunday at Sarita River pending arrival of RCMP for official arrest, today were sentenced in police court here.

They pleaded guilty to several charges of theft, and were sentenced by Magistrate Thomas Patterson to terms totalling two and one-half years for Alexander, and two years for Coull.

They were apprehended at gunpoint by logger A. Kachanoski and T. J. Blower, personnel manager at the Sarita River logging camp.

VANCOUVER (CP)—An RCAF spokesman said today air force investigators believe Sunday's mid-air jet crash near Squamish, 40 miles north of here, came when one T-33 jet aircraft came up underneath and struck the other T-33 while following it in formation.

The spokesman said the two men in the lead jet—FO Ray Martin and FO Bernard McCormack, both rescued Monday night—had no warning of the crash, witnessed by several persons.

They were FO Lt. Buton Patkau, 27, of Toronto and Vancouver, and his passenger, Flying Officer Roderick Atkins, 19.

Earlier, the pilot of the lead jet, FO Martin, said the planes "did not collide."

One of two men rescued, FO Martin said from his bed in hospital that the "plane caught fire."

"My first reaction when the flame hit my face was to pull the canopy and eject."

He said FO McCormack, also rescued, bailed out with him as the plane exploded.

Martin said he had no idea there was another aircraft down until told by his rescuers. He said he had seen another aircraft circling above as the two drifted down in their parachutes and thought the canopy from his plane may have hit the other plane.

Martin, his face and hands bandaged from burns suffered in the crash, was buoyantly happy as he chatted with newspaper men from his hospital bed.

TOO LATE TO COMPLAIN — "I was very glad the parachute opened," he joked. "It was too late to complain if anything was wrong."

Martin said the ejection and jump were far easier than expected. It was his first parachute jump.

He said he came down one-quarter mile from McCormack, who seemed to be drifting away.

"I yelled at McCormack, but I didn't know whether he heard me. He waved his arms back at me."

After landing, Martin built a fire and wrapped himself in a ground sheet and his parachute. About 24 hours later, after watching planes fly overhead almost constantly, Martin was joined by his rescuers.

"I was damned glad to see the rescue party," he said.

First to reach Martin's side was LAC Lloyd Franks, 23, one of three para-rescuers dropped into the mountainous area.

"I have some experience with parachute jumps, and that was one of the most daring I've ever seen—right onto snow, covered cliffs into the depths of tall timber," said Wing Cmdr. A. L. Boeking, in charge of the search.

Franks, who drifted off course, extricated himself from a tree and set off on foot. He was joined shortly by Squamish loggers John Wattski and Chris Wyson, and said there was an almost comic exchange between him and Martin when they met on the snow-covered mountain.

Martin, smiling cheerfully, was dressed in a sagging green fishing hat and logging boots and had a lumberjack's shirt on over his flying suit.

Franks said he hadn't been told the name of the man he was looking for and asked several times who the stranger was. The reply each time was "Martin."

POINTED SKYWARDS

Franks asked him finally whether he was the RCMP and Martin replied, pointing skywards: "I bailed out."

Led by the two loggers, the men made their way down the mountain and Martin was brought to hospital. Hospital authorities said his burns are not serious and will probably leave no scars.

F.O. McCormack, 21-year-old first officer with Trans-Canada Air Lines, plucked by helicopter from the rugged bush, gave first thought to his family.

"Notify my relatives; do they know?" he muttered to the crew of the helicopter after being picked up. Then he closed his eyes. He spoke once more during the trip from Squamish to Vancouver, where he was placed in hospital; and that was to thank his rescuers.

BURNED SEVERELY

He was being treated today for severe burns to his hands and face and for exposure. His eyes were almost swollen shut.

After a circling aircraft found McCormack lying, apparently unconscious, in the snow beside a fire, two para-rescue men were dropped in. But they foundered in the snow and had to be pulled back again by a helicopter lowering a nylon cable.

The helicopter returned to Squamish and flew out again with the two para-rescue men, this time equipped with snowshoes. They were lowered onto a lake about a half-mile from McCormack.

One climbed the mountainside and half carried McCormack down to the lake where he was picked up by the hovering helicopter.

ARCTIC FREEZE HITS FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN

By The Canadian Press

A massive body of throat-catching cold air clung to most of Canada today, tumbling temperatures to Arctic depths.

Ottawa registered an overnight low of 32 below, worst in the country among the weather office's list of official readings.

Wind Hits 72 MPH More Due Tonight

Wind-chafed Victoria can look forward to more gales and freezing temperatures overnight but continued sunny skies Wednesday may ease the nip.

Northeast gales averaged 40 miles an hour overnight, with gusts to 72 at 7:30 this morning, knocking out 50 telephone lines in Greater Victoria, one trunk power line and several domestic lines.

Police, fire and works departments reported no serious damage but fences were downed, tree limbs broken, sidewalk awnings damaged and street barriers blown over by winds whistling through the city.

FIREMEN BUSY

City firemen answered 12 calls to chimney fires, Saanich fire department handled five calls and Oak Bay one.

Wind gusting in the harbor this morning forced the Princess Elizabeth, en route to Seattle, to call for aid of a tugboat to get out of harbor.

Up-Island at Courtenay, about 400 long-distance lines are still being repaired after snow and ice interrupted service at the weekend.

Hopes to Speed-Up Building of Homes

OTTAWA (CP)—The government may soon move to boost the interest rate ceiling under the National Housing Act to encourage a greater flow of mortgage money for house building, it was learned today.

The maximum rate of 5½ per cent allowed for government-insured mortgage loans may be raised to 6 per cent, perhaps before the opening of the spring building season, informants said.

Works Minister Winters hinted

Room for Optimism

He added, that it will be up to the banks to decide how they will distribute their investment funds. But he made clear that for builders, there was room for optimism.

In 1956, as federal credit curbs took effect, the banks restricted loans to speculators and other mass builders. Some of these firms had to go out of business.

With money tight and interest rates rising, the banks and other lending institutions also found it more favorable to invest funds with higher yields.

Under the NHA, the maximum interest rate for loans insured by the government's Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation was held to 5½ per cent.

On non-insured conventional housing loans, in which the banks cannot invest, the interest rates rose to 6½ per cent and even 7 per cent.

For some time, federal officials have been pondering what action to take. There was some hesitancy to increase the maximum NHA rate, primarily because it might lead to an increase in competition for funds and cause general interest rates to edge up still further.

However, the matter has been under constant review and it

NURSE TESTIFIES

Saw Rich Widow Die, Pumped Full of Drugs

By EDDY GILMORE

EASTBOURNE, England (AP)—The nurse who attended 81-year-old Mrs. Edith Morrell testified today that Dr. John Bodkin Adams used a giant-sized hypodermic syringe to pump the wealthy widow full of drugs just before she died.

Adams, pudgy 57-year-old society physician in this fashionable seaside resort, has been accused of drugging three wealthy patients to death because of his "greed for money."

The court now is hearing preliminary evidence on a charge that Dr. Adams murdered Mrs. Morrell more than six years ago after enslaving her with drugs and getting her to change her will in his favor.

After the hearing, expected to last through the week, the court of five magistrates will decide whether Adams should stand trial before a judge and jury.

The nurse, first witness at today's session, was Miss Caroline Randall, who watched by the bedside as Mrs. Morrell died. She testified that Dr. Adams came to Mrs. Morrell's house on Nov. 12, 1950—the night before she died—and brought a 5 c.c. syringe which he filled and asked the nurse to inject.

"Is that the normal type of syringe to use?" assistant crown counsel Malcolm Morris asked the nurse.

"No," she replied. "It was bigger. The normal was a 1 or 2 c.c. syringe."

The nurse said she did not know what the injection was but gave it to Mrs. Morrell on the doctor's orders, then followed it up three hours later with a similar injection prepared by Adams.

Mrs. Morrell developed spasms but, the nurse testified, "she gradually became quiet and had a peaceful end. She just passed away quietly."

Two other nurses testified that they didn't know what the injections were and that the doctor wouldn't tell them.

Dr. Adams has been charged with the murder of three other wealthy patients.

Bogart: An Extrovert of Gruff Tenderness

HOLLYWOOD — Humphrey Bogart, filmdom's tough guy, fought a battle he couldn't win.

Although he didn't know it, he was doomed more than a year ago.

His physician, Dr. Maynard Brandams, said today that he withheld the truth from Bogart that the operation last March for cancer of the esophagus could not save him.

Cancer had spread through his system.

Today the film world and millions of idols mourn his passing. Thursday his body will be laid to rest in Glendale.

Fellow actor John Huston will deliver the eulogy.

Bogart was a hard-drinking, prankish extrovert whose heart was as soft as his screen lines were hard.

He loved to stir things up — "to touch a nerve." And how he hated press releases.

"That stuff stinks," he said.

"The only way to get publicity is to be an exciting enough personality."

He was. He explained how he became a character: "By doing as I damned please."

In 1949, for example, Bogie was hauled into a New York court for flooring a cutie in a nightclub in a fight over a fuzzy toy panda. The press descended upon the actor with a delicate question: Was he drunk?

Bogart, his face lined with the memories of a thousand parties, snorted. "Certainly. Isn't everybody drunk at 4 a.m.?"

Bogart was always available for comment on anything from young male stars ("no color, no imagination") to non-drinkers ("I don't trust 'em") to TV dramas ("stupid stories acted by guys trying to be Marion Brando.")

During most of his Hollywood career, Bogart was under contract to Warner studio. He and Jack Warner were often at war. During one contract fight, Bogart told New York newsmen, "Jack Warner is a creep."

Warner chastised the actor for the remark.

"Jack," replied Bogart, looking hurt, "you don't even know what I mean by creep."

"I have a dictionary right here before me," said Warner. "It means a loathsome, crawling thing."

"But Jack," said the indignant Bogart, "I spelled it with a 'K'."

Young Humphrey was a rebel from the start. The son of two busy parents, his father a well-known New York physician, he was reared without much guidance and was tossed out of Phillips Academy at Andover, Mass., for "uncontrollable high spirits." He enlisted in the navy during the First World War rather than face his parents.

M' Uncle Zek sez the wind's so high here it's takin' the dandruff out o' his mustache.

Nobuddy'll replace Bogie cuz his was a sneer you cud cheer.

FROM NEW LICENCE REVENUE

Publicity Boost Urged by Curtis

Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau should reap the benefits when trade licence revenues are increased by the city, according to Ald. Austin Curtis.

He submitted a report to council Monday on his own findings of the two-man trade licence committee set up in December.

His recommendations were in direct opposition to those of Ald. J. Donald Smith, who chaired the committee, then quit when council would not act on his proposals.

Ald. Smith had asked revision of the licence structure and imposition of business tax immediately with new revenues being diverted to reduce the mill rate.

Await New Municipal Act

Ald. Curtis says no revision of licensing should be undertaken until the provincial government completes revision of the Municipal Act, probably at the coming session of the Legislature.

"I recommend imposing of business tax should be dropped," he added.

Ald. Curtis is chairman of the 1957 trade licence committee, which includes Ald. E. D. McEwen and Ald. Hugh Ramsay.

Ald. Smith has launched a radio and newspaper advertising campaign in a one-man crusade for public support of business tax.

Friction generated by the two opposing points of view has erupted at council level at the last two meetings, with Mayor Percy Scurrell strongly opposing Ald. Smith.

Here are the recommendations of Ald. Curtis:

1. Action on trade licence revision should await provincial delegation of businessmen who agreed to a very heavy increase in licence fees providing the bureau was granted a minimum of $25,000 per annum, with the result the fees were increased approximately 50 per cent.

"The present grant to the bureau is $32,500, but in purchase power this amount is much less today than the amount agreed upon in 1923."

Ald. Smith says he would use any new revenues from business tax or revision of licensing for reduction of property taxes.

Ald. Curtis says imposition of a business tax as recommended by Ald. Smith would cost up to $30,000 to set in motion.

But he added, "it may be that in a year or two, as a result of more intimate knowledge and experience gained in the meantime... a change from trade licence to business tax may be considered advisable."

Mr. and Mrs. Whittall lived in Victoria for 15 years prior to the mid-twenties. Mrs. Whittall was a member of Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Oak Bay.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Fred (Eileen) Heye, Olympia, and a grandson, Peter Whittall, Tacoma, and three sisters, Mrs. Deliah Graham, Vancouver; Mrs. E. Purcell, Shelton, Wash., and Mrs. A. Nolan, in Ireland.

Mrs. Whittall was predeceased by her husband and one son, Capt. Jack Whittall.

Funeral services were held in St. Michael's Catholic Church, Olympia, Dec. 24.

gort finally clicked as the killer Duke Mantee in "The Petrified Forest." He won film's highest honor, the Academy Award, for "The African Queen."

Although the film community was aware of the gravity of Bogart's illness, it was stunned by his death. Among the comments:

Bing Crosby—"Bogie was a fine person and a superb actor."

David Niven—"How Bogie would hate this—but God knows, it is a great personal loss to his friends and to audiences who loved him. He was a man of enormous bark and absolutely no bite."

The story of Bogart's last days is a tale of courage and devotion. Friends are convinced that the actor felt he would recover.

"Bogie had tremendous guts, will power and optimism," an intimate said.

Added another close friend, restaurateur Michael Romanoff: "Bogie never said anything to anyone that would indicate he knew he was going to die."

Helping to keep his spirits high was his devoted wife, Lauren Bacall.

When he first fell ill, she gave up her acting career to be at his side. Despite his growlings, there was no doubt about his admiration for her. Privately, he termed her "one of the great women of this town." She was with him constantly during the last few months.

Friends marvelled at how she took his death. She didn't break down. She told the news to friends and requested photographers not to come to the house this morning so the Bogart children could get off to school as usual. They are Stephen, 8, and Leslie, 4.

Miss Bacall also requested that donations be made to the American Cancer Society in lieu of flowers.

At his death he was a wealthy man who liked fine living. He owned a $160,000 whitewashed brick home, two Jaguars, three dogs (Boxers) and a $55,000 boat.

Despite his gruffness, Bogie was a warm, tender person. He regarded his wife, "Betty" Bacall, with pride and affection. He openly cried at their wedding ceremony. And once, when asked if he wanted to relive any part of his life, he said:

"Yes—the time I was courted by Betty."

Garson Pledges Newsprint Hike Statement

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Garson, who administers federal anti-combines legislation, said today he would be "glad to make a statement" Wednesday on recent increases in the price of newsprint.

Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg-North Centre) asked him in the Commons whether, in view of the price increases, the restrictive trade practices commission would investigate "to determine whether there are any elements of price-fixing or restraint of trade."

The Bowater Paper Co. Monday announced a price rise of $4 a ton for newsprint to a total $134 a ton delivered in New York. The move was in line with increases by three other newsprint companies.

In the past, price increases by one newsprint company have been followed by similar action by others.

Permanent Stand-by UN Police Latest Proposal by Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson has coupled a proposal for a stand-by United Nations police force with a warning that to survive the General Assembly needs a moderate and constructive approach to its problems.

In making his proposal in the Commons Monday that Canada and other UN members keep part of their armed forces ready for UN police duty, Mr. Pearson said recent developments "have raised in our minds questions regarding the future of the General Assembly."

Mr. Pearson also recommended that the UN Emergency Force be kept in Egypt until a Middle East political settlement is achieved and that its activities be extended to patrolling all Israel-Arab borders—with the consent of the nations involved.

On the assembly's future, he said recent developments have emphasized the gap between responsible and irresponsible UN membership. Britain and France heeded UN recommendations; Russia treated UN resolutions with contempt when they cut across its own national policy.

There was a growing tendency in the assembly to force through, by sheer voting strength, resolutions "that are impractical and at times quite unreasonable."

INTEREST WELCOMED

Mr. Pearson said the "ideas behind" President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine are welcomed by Canada "as evidence of the increased interest of the United States in the Middle East in terms of both defence and economic aid for the development of the area."

But he added he should point out that the president's declaration did not deal with conflict between non-Communist states in the Middle East nor with Communist subversion brought about by non-military means.

RELATIONS WITH U.S.

Discussing briefly Canadian-American relations, he said: "I think we (the Canadian government) have made it abundantly clear that our acknowledgment of the United States as the inevitable and indispensable leader of the free world does not at all imply automatic agreement with all its policies."

"I have even been told by some of my friends below the line that we have a tendency to make this fact almost unnecessarily clear."

The Diesel Issue!

The following statement was made at Ottawa, January 11, 1957, by N. R. Crump, President, Canadian Pacific Railway:

"Service on Canadian Pacific will be restored as quickly as safe operation of the lines can be assured and in some areas trains will be operating within a matter of hours; the longer delay in other areas will be caused by snow and winter conditions but it will not be long before the public has full Canadian Pacific service once again.

"From the outset of our differences with the Firemen's Union, Canadian Pacific has been motivated by its duty to provide safe, economical and what I consider to be truly efficient railway service. Finality of labour disputes is essential to railway transportation such as we provide; Canadian Pacific thought in order to bring that finality about any inquiry must be binding. Under the terms of the settlement reached there will be a judicial inquiry into the Diesel issue, as well as two subsidiary issues. There is no agreement that makes the decision binding but the Prime Minister and his colleagues, who have had much experience, stated in the House as well as to the parties concerned in the dispute that after the investigation which is now being arranged finality will be achieved. I have accepted this assessment.

"Thousands of Canadian Pacific customers have demonstrated in the last few days great patience and understanding. I do thank them for this and particularly for the many messages of encouragement they sent me.

"To all employees of Canadian Pacific, the strike has been a difficult period. On their return to work I know they, as in the past, will meet the challenge of providing to the public transportation service worthy of the great traditions of Canadian Pacific."

Grocery Combine Charge Hurlled by Royal City MP

(From Times News Services)

A Social Creditor from New Westminster, B.C., expressed in the House Monday his suspicions that grocery wholesalers in the Greater Vancouver area may be operating a price-fixing combine.

George Hahn also voiced doubts about sales operations of two large soap manufacturers — Procter and Gamble and Lever Brothers — and their many trade marks.

He said Greater Vancouver wholesalers who sell to small grocery stores all have adopted similar practices.

For example, he said, small corner storekeepers are asked to sign post-dated cheques when they purchase supplies.

The wholesalers later filled in the amount. The retailers were asked to sign such blank cheques without assurance they would get the goods.

Mr. Hahn said if a cheque happened to be returned from the retailer's bank because of insufficient funds, the retailer was charged one-half of one per cent a week on the amount.

He said he believes this practice is illegal, and suggested there was more than "coincidence" in the fact the practice was adopted by most wholesalers.

Mr. Hahn asked whether it is merely a coincidence that Procter and Gamble and Lever Brothers raise their prices almost at the same time, within a week of each other.

He suggested the government should investigate claims made by the companies in connection with the various types of soap they sell.

B.C. Member Outlines CCF Program

A CCF program of national development and social benefits, based on increased taxation of corporations and wealthy individuals, was outlined by H. W. Herridge.

The member for Kootenay West said his party advocates a national development investment board to direct capital investments to the best social advantage.

It would use Canadian capital, based on the country's credit, to develop natural resources and avoid bringing in the large amounts of U.S. capital now entering the country.

Mr. Herridge also urged a full-fledged national health plan and increased old-age pensions. "If we want to, we can give old-age pensioners $75 a month without any question," he said. That would cost money and the CCF would raise the funds by increasing tax rates on corporations and in the higher income brackets of the personal income tax. The tax exemptions granted to corporations should also be reviewed.

Credit theory as a hodge-podge of political theories discarded years ago by other civilizations. Mr. Studer, who has a good share of brimstone in his speech, said: "They are a party of raucous technocrats with hellfire and brimstone and a policy that was spawned in some other country and which grew to maturity, if you could ever call it that, in the foothills of Alberta."

The member for Swift Current-Maple Creek, whose customary target is the CCF party, called the Social Credit group "Socialist credit" in about half the references he made to it.

CCF member Mervyn Johnson charged that the government is holding off announcement of an interim payment on the 1955-56 wheat pool until it can make a "pre-election bribe" of a higher final payment.

The member for the Saskatchewan constituency of Kindersley made the charge in a review of farm problems.

He called for an immediate interim payment on last year's wheat pool. He estimated there is enough cash in the hands of the Canadian Wheat Board now to make a payment of 10 to 12 cents a bushel.

Maj.-Gen.-G. R. Pearkes, V.C., told the House that a "little more energy by the government could have averted the nine-day CPR strike."

The Progressive Conservative MP for Esquimalt-Saanich said the whole country was wondering why, if it was possible Friday for the government to impose certain conditions on the CPR and its firemen's union, the same thing had not been done two weeks earlier.

HUNGARY PATRIOT CHIEF SENTENCED TO DEATH

BUDAPEST (AP)—Josef Dudas, one of the leaders of Hungary's unsuccessful uprising against the Russians, has been sentenced to death, it was reported today. There was no immediate confirmation of the report which came from a reliable source.

Dudas at one time was running the city of Budapest for the insurgent students and workmen.

Once a Member of Parliament for the Smallholders Party, he was imprisoned during the regime of former Communist Party boss Matyas Rakosi, but was released last year.

Neither Eisenhower nor Macmillan, in his reply, made any mention of the possibility of an early face-to-face meeting.

The exchange with Macmillan, who last week succeeded Sir Anthony Eden, was released in Tucson shortly before the president left on a further tour of drought-damaged areas of the southwest.

Neither Eisenhower nor Macmillan, in his reply, made any mention of the possibility of an early face-to-face meeting.

Tucson, Ariz. (AP)—President Eisenhower today made public an exchange of messages with Prime Minister Macmillan, pledging continued personal friendship and obviously aimed at bolstering Anglo-American unity.

3,000 British Troops Start Cyprus Manhunt

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—and early-morning traffic. More than 3,000 British troops, aided by police, swooped down on Nicosia today in one of the island capital's biggest man-hunts.

Patrols toured the narrow, winding streets of the Greek section of the walled city just before dawn, waking people with the warning, blared through loud-speakers: "Stay at home: A curfew has been imposed. You must not come out into the streets."

Troops strung barbed wire barricades across the six bridges giving access to the city and turned away all pedestrians

The Throne and Politics

THE PRIMARY FUNCTION OF the House of Commons, says Bagehot in his classic work on the British constitution, is to choose the prime minister. But who, in fact, chose Prime Minister Macmillan? That question is the core of the Labor Party's present protest against the method of Sir Anthony Eden's resignation and the appointment of his successor.

The Labor Party's complaint is that the Queen, through the bungling of her existing advisers, was compelled herself to choose a new first minister and thus was brought into party politics from which the Throne has long been excluded. Thus the Labor Party professes to be rallying around the sovereign and the constitution while the Conservatives have, in some measure, damaged both.

This dispute arises through the extraordinary circumstances of Mr. Macmillan's appointment.

Sir Anthony went to the palace and offered his resignation. In this situation it is customary—though it is not compulsory under an unwritten and highly flexible constitution—for the retiring prime minister to recommend the name of his successor.

When a prime minister has been defeated at the polls or in the Commons, or when he expects defeat, he and the sovereign have no discretion. The leader of the opposition party automatically is recommended to the sovereign and is asked to form a new government.

In the recent case, however, the Government had not been defeated and was in no danger of defeat. The prime minister was resigning for purely personal reasons and there was no obvious successor.

Once Sir Anthony had resigned as prime minister, there was not even a leader of the Conservative Party, for in British party leaders are not always chosen by a party convention but, more usually, by the party's members in Parliament. The ruling Conservative Party had made no such choice since it did not expect Sir Anthony to retire.

What Sir Anthony said to the Queen may not be known for many years, until the secret history of these times is revealed. All we know now is that eighteen hours passed between the time when Sir Anthony resigned and Mr. Macmillan was invited to the palace. What happened in those eighteen mysterious hours?

It is said in Britain that the Queen must have hesitated to accept Sir Anthony's advice and therefore sought the advice of Sir Winston Churchill, as she was certainly entitled to do. This or some other circumstance must explain the hiatus of eighteen hours during which the sovereign lacked a first minister and the nation a government.

Most extraordinary of all, the leading men of the Eden Government apparently were unable to agree at once on the name of a new prime minister, perhaps being divided between Mr. Macmillan and Mr. Butler. If there had been agreement, as there usually is, the choice of these men, conveyed to the Queen by Sir Anthony, would have been confirmed instantly and the eighteen awkward hours avoided.

The controversy about the position of the throne does not affect, of course, the position of the Queen of Canada who, in a constitutional sense, is a different person from the Queen of Britain.

In Canada a situation like that now debated in Britain is not likely to arise because here political parties normally choose their leaders by convention and the successor to a retiring prime minister is usually known. Even here, however, there can be difficulties, as in the historic constitutional crisis of 1926, when Governor-General Byng rejected the advice of Prime Minister King and asked Mr. Meighen to form a short-lived ministry.

It is for the British people alone to deal as they see fit with the complaints of the Labor Party. From this distance, however, it would appear that the Labor Party, in protesting that the Conservatives have dragged the Crown into politics, is itself in danger of doing precisely the same thing.

Mr. Pearson on His Way

THE OLD HANDS IN OTTAWA were quick to note Mr. St. Laurent's extraordinary, perhaps unprecedented, action in selecting Mr. Pearson for a long and ardent passage of praise in the House of Commons.

This could hardly have been accidental or unpremeditated. Speaking in the opening address of the new session—when normally a prime minister discusses only the policies of his government—Mr. St. Laurent paused to say that his foreign minister had performed invaluable work for world peace, as undoubtedly he has.

Then the prime minister added that Mr. Pearson was needed in Canada and could do more useful work here than as secretary of NATO, a position which he already had been offered and refused.

Most Ottawa observers have concluded that in this speech Mr. St. Laurent deliberately indicated his choice of Mr. Pearson as his successor a few years hence.

Until now Mr. St. Laurent has never shown his preference by a single word. He was supposed to be impartial as between Mr. Pearson and Mr. Harris.

Now, it is said, Mr. Pearson has his leader's blessing and therefore is probably assured of the Liberal Party's leadership whenever Mr. St. Laurent retires.

Certainly the recommendation of Mr. St. Laurent would weigh heavily with a party convention. It might well be decisive. But we doubt that it is necessary for Mr. Pearson's success, however welcome and powerful it may be. Events, and his outstanding part in them, surely have made Mr. Pearson inevitably the next Liberal leader and, if the government wins the 1957 election, the next prime minister.

Most Canadians probably take that prospect for granted already and are well satisfied with it.

Another Star Passes

THE ENTERTAINMENT WORLD is the poorer today for the death of Humphrey Bogart, who left Park Avenue to become the screen's ultra-masculine "tough guy."

A far cry from the conventional, attractive matinee idol, he worked hard to emerge from ordinary, run-of-the-mill performance to a character portrayal of Academy Award proportions.

Widely recognized for his early success in "The Petrified Forest," Humphrey Bogart had reached the elect in his art with his award-winning role in "African Queen" with Katharine Hepburn and had received nomination for like distinction as Captain Queeg in "The Caine Mutiny."

With the passing years he gained a mature mastery of his medium which brought enjoyment to millions. Hollywood and the film world in general have lost a major figure.

Anxiety in Saudi Arabia

IF THE WESTERN WORLD IS concerned deeply over Soviet penetration in Egypt and Syria, so, too, is Saudi Arabia—but for very different and not too commendable reasons.

The royal princes of the Middle East country view the infiltration of communists with strictly personal dislike. They note the increasing control assumed by Russian technicians in training and equipping the military forces of Arab neighbors, particularly Syria, and they are seized with some anxiety.

"Communist control of an Arab army raises delicate questions for the Saudi royal family," writes Harry B. Ellis in The Christian Science Monitor. "For some time resentment has been expressed by Saudi Arabia at the relatively small amount of oil income which returns to the people in the form of schools, hospitals, road systems and other public services."

The situation is one which lends itself to communist exploitation. That, in turn, seems to be swinging the Saudi monarch from his neighbors' inclination to look to Moscow. The result seems to face the ruler of Saudi Arabia toward the west, but not necessarily from the right impulses.

The Horror of It

THE weather man greatly disappointed me the other day by failing to deliver the promised blizzard. I felt we needed another blizzard to postpone a worse horror now rushing toward us. The spring, I mean. The first green and repulsive spoor of spring already has appeared on the whole some dark earth of winter. Nothing, I suppose, can stop it. The year has turned and we are sliding downward rapidly into the verdant vortex of the year.

Now, it is all very well for poets and editorial writers to burst out, as they will burst shortly, into the usual spring chorus, and a few premature frogs have been tuning up their instruments already. But to the man who has to grapple with spring itself the prospects are indeed horrifying. A blizzard would be preferable.

AFTER all, a householder can do nothing about a white blizzard. He can sit back in a warm house and enjoy it at ease. The green blizzard is another matter altogether. You must summon up your last vestiges of courage and your winter-softened muscles. You must go out and meet your fate. Lead the old forlorn hope again, knowing quite well that you are beaten before you start.

Spring no doubt is a good time for the young. Their fancy lightly turns to thoughts of you know what. (That sentiment was written by a gentleman who was living in London and never planted a garden in his life.) For the aging gardener winter is the best season of the year but it doesn't last long. Soon his fancy will be turning sadly to thoughts of those easy, indoor months when he could rest from his labors.

THOSE labors are about to begin once more. It is useless, however, to explain our agonies of preparation to the non-gardeners. They will be lying on a beach at Honolulu and complaining about the cold weather at home while we are praying for a merciful fall of snow.

But when the time comes, when the avalanche of spring is upon us, the non-gardeners will enjoy the toil of better men. They will regard a city of flowers as their own property. They will not tell but they will reap.

In a just society, of course, no able-bodied man would be permitted to see, smell or pick a flower, to eat a new vegetable or lie upon a lawn unless he had helped to produce these things with his own hands. Society is not that just, unfortunately, and in any case the gardener is notoriously soft-headed, a working bee who always shares his honey with the drones.

THE drones now buzzing idly on the Hawaiian sands can return quite safely after the working bees have ushered in the spring. Everything will be ready for their reception—the daffodils brought into bloom, the vegetables planted, the whole menu of the summer prepared well in advance.

This is no job for weaklings. When the gardener thinks of all the things that must be done between now and the first of March, the infinite behind-the-scenes chores required to produce the stage set of the opening performance, when he realizes that the show will open only six weeks hence, though the first rehearsals have hardly begun and the script is still unwritten—why then he is suddenly paralyzed with stage fright.

THE efficient gardener, I suppose, would have been working on schedule ever since the autumn. By this time he would have had all his orchard trees pruned, the earth limed, the compost pile of last winter distributed, the shrubs transplanted and everything in order. Most of us are not that efficient. Most of us are mere gardeners, not technicians or executives.

Thus I look out this morning, sniff the first repulsive odors of spring and behold an orchard only half pruned, a dank vegetable garden only half limed, a score of shrubs yet to be moved, and a mountain of barnyard stuff (that most precious treasure and ultimate gold reserve of the nation's life) so far untouched. And as I write these lines a horde of saucy robins swoops down with a spring leer and many scolding remarks about the errors of the weather bureau.

WE can master almost everything now,adays. We can arrange perpetual prosperity. We may even be able to settle a railway strike and stop the Russians dropping the bomb. We can't settle the old problem of spring, we can't stop the green avalanche. But I am still hoping for a blizzard, just a brief, gentle little blizzard, to postpone the horror for a few merciful weeks. After that the deluge.

As Sir Beverley Said . . .

Let me end this London Letter by returning for a moment to the prime minister. Last April I wrote in Maclean's that it was difficult to imagine Eden still in power in 1957. Unfortunately, Maclean's is a persistent globe-trotter and has a surprisingly large number of readers in Britain, and I was confronted on many occasions with that unfortunate prophecy. Nothing dented, as the Irishman said, I now prophesy that Eden will lead his government with renewed strength and courage and wisdom. He will gain confidence and reputation as the man who changed the United Nations from a talking shop into a world force, and in the process saved the Middle East from communism and the evil overlordship of Russia.

Wedges of Distrust

THE resignation of Sir Anthony Eden as Prime Minister of Great Britain was a genuine personal tragedy. It was also an absolutely necessary first step towards repairing the shattered Anglo-American partnership.

A partnership, after all, is based on mutual trust—it can hardly operate successfully if one partner is forever suspecting the other of rifling the till behind his back. Since the Suez adventure, a relationship of mutual trust between the Eisenhower administration and any British government headed by Eden could not possibly exist.

It may be very wrong and very unfair. But, it is universally believed throughout the top level of the U.S. administration, that the Eden government—on Eden's orders—consciously misled the American government about British intentions, in the two weeks before Suez.

This was the main reason for the show of fury and pique in the administration immediately after the Suez invasion. It was also the main reason why President Eisenhower, despite strong hints, did not invite Eden to visit him when Eden was recuperating in Jamaica, and why he did not express the customary "regret" at Eden's resignation.

Under the circumstances, the old close relationship could not in the nature of things have been rebuilt between the Eisenhower administration and an Eden government. But the American attitude towards the Eden government is only half the story. The other half is the British, and French, attitude towards the Eisenhower administration—and specifically towards Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

No Confidence in Dulles

Again, it may be very wrong and very unfair. But it is universally believed throughout the top levels of both the British and French governments that Secretary Dulles, in the weeks after the nationalization of the Suez Canal, consciously misled both governments about American intentions. This view is unquestionably shared by Eden's successor as Prime Minister, Harold Macmillan.

The distrust of Dulles, moreover, unlike the distrust of Eden in this country, is not confined only to the top governmental levels. It is virtually universal. However unfair, Dulles has become a symbol, and a scapegoat, in Britain even more than in France.

This raises the obvious question, whether the old partnership can in fact be restored as long as Dulles is Secretary of State, even after Eden's resignation. The partnership, it should be understood, is now in complete dissolution, except in the most formal sense. The relationship between this country and its British and French allies is authoritatively described in the phrase "a total suspension of communication."

To be sure, the British and French ambassadors here see Dulles occasionally—he had a brief formal talk with both immediately before the announcement of the "Eisenhower Doctrine." The American ambassadors in London and Paris also maintain formal contacts with Dulles' opposite numbers. But the old, easy, informal, almost instinctive exchange of views and information has been entirely suspended.

Expendable

After Dulles' cancer operation, the word was put about that he intended to stay on for another six months, and then leave his post. But since then, Dulles has recovered amazingly quickly, and he has shown all his accustomed vigor. He obviously loves his job, and he may now want to stay on. But it is at least true that President Eisenhower has considered and discussed the possibility of appointing a new Secretary of State.

Two names have figured in these discussions. One is that of able Under-Secretary-designate Christian A. Herter. The other is that of the President's old friend, Gen. Alfred Gruenther (who has also been considered to succeed Charles E. Wilson as Secretary of Defense). The obvious objection to Gruenther is the fact that his appointment would put a general in both the White House and the State Department. But Gruenther also has an intimate personal relationship with the President, a very real asset which Herter lacks.

At any rate, both men are well qualified. Both men are also trusted and respected by our allies, which—unfair though it may be—Dulles unquestionably is not. And if it is true that the old partnership cannot be restored while Dulles remains in his post, then Dulles, like other Secretaries of State before him, must be regarded as expendable. ### E. E. Winch

After more than a quarter century of public service in the B.C. Legislature, a senior member and one of the most advanced in years has completed his mission and passed into the great unknown.

His name may be forgotten but his work will live, and in Longfellow's words:

"Departing leave behind him Footprints in the sands of time."
The unfortunate, the aged and infirm have lost a real friend who will be difficult to replace.

Tribute

In tribute to the late E. E. Winch, M.L.A., every British Columbian and hundreds of Canadians will know the deepest sense of loss at his demise, for here was a man of great stature by the highest standards of measurement.

He knew only one shade of truth and that was impregnable. He used his office to serve in the warmest responsive manner, and any help he gave—which was extensive during his political years—was given under a cloak of genuine modesty, the recipient made to feel that he had granted the privilege, not Ernest Winch.

Totally lacking in flamboyance, pomposity, or self-appreciation, he nevertheless moved with dignified pride, objectively, yet close to any call upon his efforts or ability to give. His son follows closely in his footsteps and this must have been his deepest joy.

We shall all be poorer at his absence, and lost for the moment will be a valuable steadiness that upheld the provincial House. Others there are in the legislature who will rise more quickly due to the inspiration of Mr. Winch, for he was universally elected in the hearts and minds of all political parties, and we Liberals loved him!

Little Grey Purse

I was shopping in Kresge's Ltd. on Douglas Street, and lost my change purse with about four or five dollars in it. It was a little old grey purse.

I went to the office to ask for 10 cents for bus fare to get home. The young lady in the office told me to leave my name and address in case the purse was turned in. I said I didn't think anyone would turn in a little old purse like that, but I left my phone number.

When I got home, the first thing I was asked was, "Did you lose your purse?" I said I had, but how did the questioner know. The reply was that a call had come from Kresge's saying the purse had been turned in.

I was so sorry I had thought some one was dishonest. I would like to thank the person who turned in that little old grey purse and say how happy I am that we have honest people in Victoria.

"REASSURED."

Helped to Help

May we thank most sincerely all those who contributed to the Surplus Food Stall so generously during 1956, and the service clubs for their great assistance in the collecting and delivering supplies?

All our applicants are screened by the welfare agencies and we now have 192 families, representing 419 people. These are senior citizens, widows with small children, deserted mothers, and families whose wage-earner suffers from ill-health. It is our endeavour to supply these recipients with sufficient food to assist for one week of each month.

Death by Gas

"Natural gas, which is non-poisonous, is replacing manufactured gas in the Vancouver area. B.C. Electric Co. officials said the deaths may have resulted from oxygen exclusion." In other words, the two people referred to in that Canadian Press item on your page 7 of Jan. 9, were asphyxiated.

As in other places where "natural gas" is now used, replacing coal gas, hundreds of good people will be asphyxiated in this area as a result of that very dangerous statement that "natural gas is non-poisonous."

Natural gas, like the gas burned in your automobile, is petroleum gas and the fumes resulting from its burning in any closed room, where expert provision is not made for carrying said fumes off to the outer atmosphere, will kill you just as surely as running the motor of your automobile in a closed garage. The result will be exactly the same.

Coal gas is poisonous before it is burned. Natural gas is deadly after it is burned.

B.C. authorities better find out quickly from Alberta, California and other natural gas consumption areas, the shocking consequences that will come to many natural gas users here in British Columbia, unless the most emphatic regulations be enacted and enforced in connection with all installations and use of gas-burning equipment in this province.

In spite of all the warnings issued from time to time in California, people are still being found dead in ill-ventilated rooms, from the fumes given off by ventless gas-heaters, just as they would be if they went to sleep in their garage, doors closed and the motor running. Call it "oxygen exclusion" if you will—I'll call it "deadly fumes."

H. V. O'REILLY.

Immigration Discrepancy

Your article concerning the Ontario Medical College's demand for a Canadian or British citizenship as a preliminary to the right to practice raises the whole question of immigrant policy here in Canada, and the discrepancy between the government propaganda abroad and the reception of immigrants within the country.

The medical men in Ontario, and to some extent here in B.C., are only following the example of the trade unions which have for some time demanded citizenship before a man may join.

A steel worker with the skill of 20 years behind him, coming from Europe, must also "dig ditches" for five years. Canada needs all these skilled people. May we not ask for a more realistic policy from the government? First, in telling the would-be immigrant truthfully what to expect on arriving here, and secondly, in insisting that all trades and professions do more to back their policy, and allow these people to work at what they can do best.

"BRITISH IMMIGRANT."

The Big Nickel's Worth

"NEVER," says the boss of our house, "I have ever got so many Brussels sprouts for a nickel."

She says it every time she goes to the remnants of our vegetable garden for just one more picking of greens.

"Look," she says, "proffering her half-filled aluminum saucepan. 'Look at all these—and I thought they'd be finished weeks ago.'"

So, if it's not too cold out, we sit on the log that is the top of our garden retaining wall and look at half a saucepan full of Brussels sprouts. It's wonderful and we beam our collective pride.

"That," explains the boss of our house who is also director of the garden, "is the biggest nickel's worth of 1956. All these, all we've eaten and all we gave away, and all from one package of seed."

I glow with the warmth of success, even sitting on a log in January. "And beside that, we took plants over to Dot and Vera, to Bee and Tommy," the boss of our house says. "We're doing all right in the Brussels sprouts business."

We are, too. Even our dog eats Brussels sprouts smothered in brown gravy after Sunday's roast dinner.

TRIUMPH

This is a triumph. We have raised another crop where at one time hard clay produced only its luxuriant forest of horse-tails, bluebells and that prickly weed with the dandelion top.

Hitherto we've been able to grow green peas and beets in selected parts of the garden, but from the section where the sprout forest now rises—a little tattered and scarred from repeated harvests—we've had nothing of nutritional value.

Hence our enthusiasm for the most succulent green of the season—and, as the boss says, all for a nickel.

In a bemused sort of way I have the feeling that we've paid more than a nickel, at least in kind if not in cash, for those sprouts.

Hazily I remember digging up an old compost pile at a lower level and making small trenches in the rich stuff for the seed. I have a dim memory of spading the hard clay of the upper terrace, smashing it with back-breaking labor and building another compost heap there.

Running through my mind are recollections of unending trips with garden rubbish, collected leaves, grass clippings and old hay to the upper compost heap, the laying on of hand-mixed rotting compound and the further shoveling of earth from a distant point onto the whole mass.

It seems to me, too, that as late as last spring I was turning all this stuff in—again at great expense in energy. And I distinctly remember weeding the lower seed bed and transplanting the young growth into its new lodging among the created ground of the compost heap.

There were other days of weeding and watering in the heat of summer and the early days of fall.

BUT LABOR DOESN'T COUNT

It's true that if we count cash only and not man hours, we spent only a nickel. And the nickel is apparently the only thing that counts.

Once, earlier, when the boss of our house was gloating over the crop, I gently drew her attention to the time and work I had put into the plot.

"So," she queried, "you're objecting? You begrudge the little time you put into the garden? Let me tell you something. This has been a life-saver for you. Every day except Sunday you're down at the office, hunched over a typewriter, drawing in nicotine by the pint as you smoke, exercising nothing much more than your fingers."

"Why, Mr. Short-Squat-and-Girthy, you don't know how lucky you are to be able to get out here in the fresh air, enjoying this mild form of calisthenics, drinking in the glory of nature, building your health. You get all this and probably one of the best crops of sprouts per foot in Victoria. You ought to consider it a privilege."

Yes, sir. I guess I should. And she's going to let me do it all over again this year. Barring clubroot, cutworms, too many earwigs and a few other blights, we ought to have another crop next year if I can stand all this healthiness and if the boss of our house has another nickel for seed of course spring.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Tic Douloureux

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Unhappy persons are constantly asking me what to do for tic douloureux. This is a severe disease, usually, of elderly women. They get sudden spells of excruciating pain on one side of the face. It will last for a little while and then go away. Sometimes there are what we call trigger areas, where a little touch or pressure will start a spell. The spells may start, also, when the person eats or when she talks, or when she gets in a cold wind. One can commonly recognize these people on the street, because they have a shawl around their face. Usually, in desperation, they let physicians remove all their teeth, which is a mistake, because the removal of teeth can hardly help. Many of these patients are cured, at least for a time, by an injection of alcohol into the ganglion of the fifth nerve, which supplies the face with sensation.

Fortunately, in recent years, it has been discovered that if a surgeon will operate and just uncover this ganglion and loosen up its capsule, the pain can be permanently stopped. Unfortunately, the operation is a difficult, ticklish one, of the sort that can be done only by an expert brain surgeon.

THE DOCTOR'S STETHOSCOPE
In "Today's Health" for December, John Lentz has a fine article on the stethoscope. He notes that today it is the badge of a physician, and especially of an internist or a heart or chest specialist. Most commonly it is used in listening to the sounds of the heart. Usually the doctor hears lub-dub, lub-dub, the first of these sounds representing the contraction of the heart and the second sound representing the closure of important valves as the heart relaxes. The expert can tell if the several valves in the heart are opening and shutting normally. If one of them either leaks or obstructs the flow of blood, the doctor will hear a swishing sound called a murmur. He can tell which valve has been damaged so that it no longer closes efficiently, and which has been so scarred that it cannot open well and let the blood through.

Many soft murmurs are what are called "functional." They may come and go, and they are not due to a damaged valve. Many a person with a good heart has been unnecessarily alarmed by someone because of a harmless murmur. The loudest murmurs are due often to a congenital abnormality of the heart. Today such abnormalities—if they are handicapping the person—are being attended to by a heart surgeon.

In the old days before X-rays came to help us, we physicians had to listen to the chest in order to diagnose tuberculosis. In a little area at the top of a lung we might hear little bubbling or squeaking sounds, rales (pronounced like ralls).

We could note, also, changes in the normal breath sounds, or we would ask the patient to say 99 and then note the vibration of this would come through the chest wall. By listening, we doctors can recognize a patch of pneumonia, or the presence of some fluid in a lung cavity, or we can tell that the lung has become emphysematous, with many of its tiny air spaces run together into large spaces. Occasionally, the doctor will hear a so-called friction rub due to a pleurisy; he can hear the inflamed and roughened lung surface rubbing against the chest wall.

Sometimes a physician will use his stethoscope to listen to the gurgling sounds of the bowel. In the presence of certain types of peritonitis or inflammation of the lining of the cavity of the abdomen the bowel sounds will disappear, and an ominous quiet will come over the abdomen.

The obstetrician listens over the lower part of the abdomen of a pregnant woman for the heart sounds of her baby. During a long labor he will, from time to time, listen to these sounds to see if the baby is doing all right.

TOURIST RECORD FORECAST

40 Conventions In City This Year

The tourist industry will boom to new heights this year, the tourist trade group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce forecast today.

The group based its prediction on the number of conventions booked at the Empress Hotel this year—40, with over 11,640 delegates.

This represents 31,000 hotel days booked at the hotel as compared with 14,800 in 1956.

It is estimated that convention delegates will spend about $1,164,000 in the city. This is based on the assumption that each delegate will stay three days.

Advance reports from transportation companies also indicate a 10 per cent increase in visitors to the city.

Saanich Fights New Cemetery At Goldstream

Opposition to a proposed private cemetery company opening at Goldstream was put on the record Monday by Saanich Council.

Motion was put by Coun. George Austin, who feared competition for the publicly-owned, non-profit Royal Oak Burial Park, in which Saanich owns shares.

Memorial Gardens Association (Canada) Ltd., has an application before the Public Utilities Commission to proceed with plans to develop a burial park at Goldstream.

"Everyone has the right to go into certain businesses and I wonder if we have the right to deny them that right," said Reeve Arthur Ash.

"Competition is the heart of industry," commented Coun. J. Ronald Grant. "As a councillor I am not prepared to stifle free enterprise."

The motion passed with the Reeve and Coun. Grant opposing.

Fullmer Still Clock-Puncher

(Last of Two Parts)

WEST JORDAN, Utah (NEA) — Rocky Graziano was a wild man off the streets. Marcel Cerdan was something straight from a French love song. Ray Robinson was the essence of the big-city, big-money champion.

With boxing used to these types, it came as a downright shock to the New York mob when Gene Fullmer, whose hot fists and strong body helped him succeed Robinson as middleweight champion, immediately began talking of his apprentice welder's job at the Kennecott Copper Company in Bingham.

"I'm going back to work in a week," he announced. "I make $17.56 a day now and in two more years it will be $19. It's the largest open pit copper mine in the world."

Fullmer, you see, is no swaggering youngster who will waste into money as if it were corn flakes. For defeating Robinson, Fullmer got $20,915. His biggest purse before that was $7,500 when he defeated Rocky Castellani in Cleveland last January.

Regardless of what prize fighting brings in for this stout-hearted Mormon, he will not be an it's-only-money man—in the style which caused Sugar Ray Robinson to go comfortably broke.

"A man has to have a full life," the 25-year-old Fullmer says. "So I'm going back to work. My father is a foreman of welders at Kennecott."

Spartan Life, in Ring and Out

"I like working with the people there. I won't leave for several reasons. One is that the trade gives me something to fall back on."

This Spartan attitude carries over to the ring. In losing only three of 42 fights Fullmer took superb condition and the relentless pressing of a dedicated man into the battleships.

Fullmer never ducked anybody on his way to the title, beat every top contender.

It was the same way with the army late in 1952. Gene wound up in Korea for more than a year with an armored division.

Conditioning Key to Success

In 1955, Gil Turner, Eduardo Lausse and Bobby Boyd took decisions from him and Fullmer's stock seemed at its lowest. But victories over Tiger Jones, Rocky Castellani and Charley Humez brought Gene to the fore again.

"Nat Fleischer of The Ring magazine and Teddy were the first to give me recognition," Fullmer says. "I owe a lot to them."

His conditioning schedule had more to do with Fullmer's success. In his many years in the gymnasium, Gene learned quite a bit more than boxing people were willing to accept.

Fullmer, married his high school best girl, Delores Holt, in 1955 and they have a daughter. By the time he was married, Gene had been a professional four years.

Fight in the offing or not, Fullmer is on the road at 5 a.m. during summer months, an hour or so later in the winter. Anywhere up to 10 miles of jogging is ordinary.

Until November of 1954, Fullmer did most of his boxing in and around Utah. Then Teddy Brenner, at that time the Eastern Parkway Arena match maker in Brooklyn, brought him east.

Fullmer does not, for example, get hit one quarter as much as it appears. Two solid arms form a barricade against punches. He hits harder than most suspect. Not with take-out authority, but opponents wince when his right hand slams home to the body.

So now it is Gene Fullmer, middleweight champion of the world. But once the initial rush of appearances and interviews end, it will be apprentice Welder Fullmer again.

He is, you see, a middleweight champion who won't wind up with process servers in his dressing room.

Little Ken Gives Pancho Big Battle

By KEN MOSES

MELBOURNE (AP) — World professional tennis champion, Pancho Gonzalez, defeated former Australian Davis Cup star, Ken Rosewall, in the first match of their tour series at Kooyoung courts here Monday night but he had the fight of his life.

Rosewall, making his pro debut, took Gonzalez to five exciting sets before the champion won 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 1-6, 9-7.

The packed gallery of 12,000 cheered like a football crowd as it urged on the little Aussie.

Gonzalez, who stands 6-2, had his power service at top pitch but could not shake the 5-8 Rosewall off his game.

Repeatedly, Rosewall returned sizzling smashes and in the fourth set had Gonzalez floundering.

Gonzalez fought back, magnificently, although showing strain after his four-week break from tennis.

Leading 7-6 in the fifth set, Gonzalez had three chances to take the match with Rosewall down 0-40 on his service.

However, Rosewall refused to give in and won the next five points to even the score at seven each.

Gonzalez again held his service to lead 8-7.

FADES IN 16TH GAME

Rosewall won the first point on service in the sixteenth game, but lost the next three to trail 15-40.

Gonzalez went in for the kill, finally forcing Rosewall to hit out over the baseline.

After the match, Rosewall said: "I am fairly happy with the way I played. If I can do better than that I'll win matches from Gonzalez."

Gonzalez said he was amazed at the way Rosewall handled his service.

"The better I served the better he returned," the champion said.

Robertson Takes Lead in Medal Golf

Jimmy Robertson took to the frozen Royal Colwood greens like a polar bear on an iceberg Sunday and fashioned a five-stroke lead in the opening round of the spring series of city medal golf competitions.

Playing over his home course, Robertson fired a 74 in the first round of the three-round series.

Deadlocked in the runner-up spot with 79's were Tommy Harris of Colwood and Laurie Carroll, assistant professional at Victoria Golf Club. Colwood's Bill McColl, winner of the fall medal series, was eight strokes off the pace at 82.

J. McColl, Jr., of Gorge Vale, took low net honors with a net 75.

LANCE AND SOCCER GO STEADY

Those Thursdays Got Complicated

Yes, you could say that Lance Rutherford likes soccer. In fact the rangy centre forward of Victoria High School's senior team likes it so much that, in his enthusiasm earlier in the season, he tried to play for every team that asked him.

The one complicating factor in this was that Rutherford found himself with three different practices every Thursday night.

"Yeh, I like soccer," he says. "Why? Well, maybe because it's fun."

"I've been playing for five years now, and each game I like it a little better. Of course," he adds honestly, "maybe I like it better now because I play every game."

"When I just started playing I spent a lot of time on the bench—but I've grown a bit since then."

And grow he did. Lance now towers six feet four inches into the stratosphere and tips the scales at 215 pounds. As can be expected, it takes sizable feet to support such a large-scale frame—size 12, to be exact.

"But," he adds defensively, "I've never had much trouble finding soccer-boots to fit them."

But it isn't his size which distinguishes him on the field; it's his almost uncanny ability to be in the right position at the right time to score goals.

So far this year he's accounted for roughly half of Vic High's tallies, and the 17-year-old star is getting better as he

Beliveau, Harvey, Howe Top Half-Way Voting

MONTREAL (CP) —

Three members of Detroit Red Wings, two of Montreal Canadiens and goalie Terry Sawchuk of Boston Bruins were selected for the National Hockey League No. 1 all-star team in the voting, announced today, for the first half of the season.

Three players were unanimous choices of the hockey writers, broadcasters and telecasters from the six NHL cities. Centre Jean Beliveau and defenseman Doug Harvey of Montreal and right-winger Gordie Howe of Detroit received the 90 possible points.

Others voted to the first all-star team were defenseman Red Kelly and left-winger Ted Lindsay of Detroit.

Points were awarded on the basis of five for a first choice, three for a second and one for a third. A second poll will be taken at the end of the season. The combined points will decide the first and second teams.

ULLMAN ON 2ND TEAM

Make-up of the second team, based on the first-half voting, is: Goal, Glenn Hall, Detroit; defence, Doug Mohns, Boston, and Bill Gadsby, New York; centre, Norm Ullman, Detroit; right wing, Maurice Richard, Montreal; left wing, Dickie Moore, Montreal.

Kelly nosed out Mohns for a defence place on the first team, 46 points to 43. For left wing, Lindsay had 73 points to Moore's 38. For goal, Sawchuk had 67 and Hall 45.

Harvey, Beliveau and Lindsay were on last season's first all-star team. Others were goalie Jacques Plante, in third place with 28 points for the first half this season, and Maurice Richard and Gadsby.

Selection of Mohns, Ullman and Moore marked the first time they have been voted to either the first or second team.

Mickey Returns Unsigned Contract

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mickey Mantle, slugging New York Yankee outfielder, said Monday night he has returned his 1957 contract unsigned.

The triple-crown winner refused to say how much he is seeking for next season, nor how much he and the club are apart. The 25-year-old star is reported to be asking $75,000.

TALL EWART FAR SHORT IN U.S. BOXING DEBUT

HOLYOKE, Mass. (AP)—Jeff Dyer of Springfield spotted lumbering Ewart Potgieter 11½ inches in height and 120½ pounds in weight and pounded out a unanimous decision Monday night to spoil the South African giant's U.S. debut.

Dyer, no little man himself with 211½ pounds on a muscular six-foot-two frame, completely outclassed Potgieter, the biggest man in boxing history at seven feet, two inches and 332 pounds.

Potgieter, a 24-year-old former ranch hand from Vryheid, Natal, displayed only a light, ineffective left jab in dropping his first bout in 13 professional starts. He showed little co-ordination and his right hand was virtually useless.

Vic High Takes Lead in Junior Boot Series

Victoria High School's junior strong wind to build up what looked like a substantial early margin.

First Bob Hanney and then Mike Mason beat goalie Barry Sadler to give the Dockers a 2-0 lead, but Vic High came storming back moments later to knot the count at 2-2 on the strength of markers by Phil Meyer and Barry Harvey.

Meyer's goal, the first of two he scored, bounced off an Esquimalt player into the nets. Harvey dribbled in all alone a minute later, and drilled the ball past goalie Miles Webster's outstretched arms.

A goal by Jim Peters in the second half gave Vic High the lead for the first time, and Brian Grey made it 4-2 when he scored shortly after.

Meyer's second goal put the game away late in the half. Second game of the series is scheduled for Wednesday at Esquimalt. Game time is 3:30.

Sugar Hart Scores KO

NEW YORK (AP) — Garnet (Sugar) Hart of Philadelphia, outstanding welterweight prospect, came from behind Monday night to stop Gene Gonzalez of New York in 114 of the sixth round of a television thriller at St. Nicholas Arena. Each weighed 145½.

Hart dropped his rival three times in the sixth and referee Al Berk halted the bout under New York's three knockdowns—in one-round rule.

Students, 41-40; Victoria B's belted Meteors, 55-29 in a women's exhibition game, and Cordova Bay bantams edged St. Louis College, 35-33.

Four Senior B basketball teams tonight start along a narrowing path that has room for only one squad.

The crowded conditions will be rectified by the clubs themselves in a pair of elimination series that begin tonight at Victoria High School gym.

Defending champion Dickinson & Dunn meets Rose Fuel at 8:30 in the first game of a best-of-three semifinal series while Morrison's and Drakes battle for a final berth in an eight-of-three series, starting at 7:30.

In Monday's Victoria and District League games, Sooke senior C men defeated Chinsegut Students, 41-40; Victoria B's belted Meteors, 55-29 in a women's exhibition game, and Cordova Bay bantams edged St. Louis College, 35-33.

Last season he booted enough goals ("I forget how many") to win the inter-high league scoring championship even though he was bothered constantly by a trick knee.

The knee still bothers him a good deal now, as he demonstrated by doing a couple of quick deep knee bends. The cracking noise that issued from the general vicinity of his patella was audible clear across the room.

"I guess I've been pretty lucky, though," he says. "Apart from that one injury, all I've had is the usual shin-hacks, and they don't bother me too much."

Lance doesn't confine his soccer to the school; he's scored 31 times in 11 games for Tillamook of the Lower Island Juvenile League and that includes two games in which he hit for six goals.

How does the rangy forward score his goals? "Well, and here he looks thoughtful. "I meet the ball, run a few steps with it, and just let 'er go. That way the shot's more accurate than if you just meet and kick it in the same motion."

"If possible, I like to shoot from about 18 yards. Of course, you can't be choosy. You just move the other guys out of the way, and hope for the best."

Cougars Give Lynn Big Going-Away Gift

Brown Leads Assault On New Westminster

Victoria 7, New Westminster 1

By BILL RAYNER

Victoria Cougars, individually and collectively, will have to wait a while to see what impression they have made on Lynn Patrick.

Patrick headed home toward his NHL Boston Bruins today, following an eight-day stint cataloguing the farmhand Cougars in their Western Hockey League struggles.

His last look was Monday night at Memorial Arena, and it was a good long one as the Cats stifled the New Westminster Royals 7-1. Patrick enjoyed every minute of it.

"That was a little better," he said to coach Colin Kilburn in the dressing room afterward. Kilburn, whose Cougars had just parted company with a two-game losing streak over the weekend, agreed.

Patrick's trip out here was to see what help the last-place Cougars needed. Despite Monday's win, their second most decisive of the season on home ice, they still need help, and Kilburn expects a few player changes as soon as Patrick makes the necessary arrangements back east.

The club is still three points behind the third-place Royals, who could have taken over second place in the Coast Division with a victory Monday.

It took the Cougars only four minutes and 34 seconds to dispel that dream. At that mark of the first period they were ahead 3-0 and were gathering steam. It was 5-1 after the second.

Heinrich Collects First Goal

Bruce Carmichael, Wayne Brown and Nelson Bulloch joined forces to keep the Cougars in the chase for the final playoff spot. Carmichael lined home two fleet goals; Brown scored once and picked up three assists and Bulloch added a goal and an assist. Doug Macauley, Don Chiupka and Lionel Heinrich with his first goal of the season completed the total.

Denny Olson scored Royals' lonely tally.

The game was not without its distractions. The Royals were forever bumping into each other during the evening, and at times the Cats followed suit out of sheer boredom.

Then, midway through the third period, George Ranieri, one of the lads being watched carefully by Patrick, brought the house down by casually leaning on his stick at a face-off and having it buckle under him, tossing him to the ice. Even the Royals, behind 6-1 at the time, smiled.

Bulloch started off an aggressive performance by scoring Cougars' first goal at 3:31 of the first. Sixteen seconds later Carmichael went down all alone along the left boards and rifled his first in to make it 2-0.

Brown drove one from the point on a faceoff seconds after Royals' Ron Matthews was banished for a penalty, to give the Cougars a 3-0 lead.

In the second, Carmichael took a perfect pass from Bulloch at the blueline and beat Bev Bentley with another clean drive to make it 4-0 at 8:15.

Pete Pulls Switch in Style

Olson slowed the Victoria march briefly at 15:06 by golfing one past Marcel Pelletier from a melee. Oddly, Max McNab and Pete Durham, who played a meek game as contrasted to his usual grinding style, were given assists on the solo effort.

Macauley, finishing a three-man relay on the short side, completed the scoring in the second. Heinrich, with a quick dash from centre, where he had blocked a pass, and Chiupka from a scramble sealed the Royals' doom in the third.

Used sparingly for the first time was Victoria's Gordie Wilson, whose had knee still prevented any effective play.

Royals lost the services, at least temporarily, of Ollie Dorohoy, who was crashed into the goal by Bulloch in the first period. Cougar doctor R. J. Wride reported that Dorohoy injured his chest but that no bones seemed to be broken.

On the prairies, meanwhile, the hot-and-cold Calgary Stampede blew exceedingly hot as they bumped the Brandon Regals in overtime, before 5,071 Calgary fans.

Steve Wittuk took a pass from Archie Scott and broke away to plant the winning goal behind Lucien Dechene at 2:27 of the overtime period. Les Lilley had forced overtime when he scored Brandon's tying goal at 3:16 of the third period.

Sid Finney and Dave Duke scored the other two Calgary goals and Bill Voss got the first for Brandon.

Mrs. V. W. Scott Wins Cougar Car Contest

Winner of the 1957 Plymouth sedan in the Cougars' skilltest contest was Mrs. V. W. Scott.

Mrs. Scott was awarded the car Monday night at Memorial Arena during the Cougars-New Westminster hockey game.

To win, Mrs. Scott accurately predicted the correct point total of the Cougars by a certain date, plus their goals-for and goals-against averages.

Duffer Derby Vetoed

Nuttall Elected Anglers' President

By DOUG PEDEN

There will be no easy way to qualify for a fish-off berth in the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association ladder derby next summer.

The Duffer's Derby, two-year-old offspring of the annual ladder derby, expired quietly during the annual general meeting of the VSIAA at Club Sirocco Monday night.

Inaugurated for the purpose of giving ladder derby entrants, who caught a salmon but failed to win one of the qualifying berths in the main fish-off, a derby of their own, the duffer's fish-fest was discontinued by unanimous vote. Members also decided to award the perpetual trophy for the Duffer's Derby, which lost $800 last season, to the winner of the association's 1957 coho derby.

The meeting also voted to oppose the proposed non-resident licence for sports fishing in non-tidal waters and adopted revisions to several by-laws in the VSIAA constitution.

NUTTALL PRESIDENT

Succeeding Jack Clyde as VSIAA president is Frank Nuttall, one of the association's most active members. Nuttall, starting his fifth year with the anglers, was elected to his new position by acclamation.

Clyde took over the position in the middle of last year when Andy Anderson was forced to step down because of poor health.

Other officers named were: Ray Ritchie, honorary president; Sparky Romano, first vice-president; Vic Humphries, second vice-president; and Bill Hoskyn, secretary-treasurer.

Elected as directors were John Rose, Capt. A. C. Cruchley, Ivan Shillington, Art Mawer, Archie Lambie, Reg Hayward, Dick James, Martin Nickels, Eric Pelsner, Hank Nielsen, E. Sidaway and Bill Kirk.

Financial reports read to the meeting showed that the Anglers-Times Solarium Derby raised $6,356.67 for the Queen Alexandra Solarium and $1,563.11 was raised for the Cerebral Palsy Association by the annual coho derby.

Life memberships in the VSIAA were awarded to Clyde, Keith McKenzie and Sid Upton.

Winners of trophies presented during the meeting were:

Household Finance Trophy, for largest salmon caught during qualifying period and final fish-off in ladder derby; and Woodward Trophy, for largest salmon caught in final fish-off. R. J. Tate, 23.7 pounds.

Melrose Cafe Trophy, Cy Bernard Trophy and diamond button, all for largest salmon caught during the year—Sid Upton, 62.2 pounds.

Brick Whitney Trophy, largest salmon caught during the year by a lady; and Ming's Kitchen Trophy, largest salmon caught in the duffer's fish-off—Mrs. Irene Jaupdrew, 22.4 pounds.

Robinson's Trophy, for largest salmon caught on a Wednesday from May to August—R. W. McDonald, 28.14 pounds.

Poodle Dog Cafe Trophy, for the largest number of salmon of 20 pounds or more—Art Midlane, 21.7, 23.4 and 30.3 pounds.

Jan May Trophy, for the largest salmon caught by a junior member during the year; and the Ronnie Sandler Memorial Trophy, for the largest salmon caught by a junior during the junior derby—Joan Midlane, 24.2 pounds.

Ernie Silburn Memorial Trophy, for the largest salmon caught in a fish-off of members of the directorate, radio and press—Vic Humphries, 24.4 pounds.

Scots Lose Four Matches

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)

Now past the one-third mark in their 100-game country-wide series against Canadian curling rinks the Scots trailed 467 points to 264.

HERB CAPOZZI NAMED TO MANAGE B.C. LIONS

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union today announced the appointment of Herb Capozzi, former player with Montreal Alouettes and Calgary Stampede, as general manager of the B.C. club.

City Shuttle Meet Expected To Draw Record Entry List

Increased interest in the shuttle-chasing sport and inclusion of a new class are expected to help boost the number of contestants in the Victoria badminton championships to a record level before entries in the annual tourney close at 8 tonight.

Tournament officials decided this year to abandon the handicap events formerly held in conjunction with open play and have substituted a "C" class, open to all players not rated above fourth-division calibre.

Competition at the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club courts will open Wednesday, and finals will be scheduled Saturday. Draw for opening matches will be made tonight. Late entries may be telephoned to Jim Hobson at 2-1923 before the 8 p.m. deadline.

Saanich Careful On Trade Stamp Controversy

Saanich council Monday night moved cautiously on a request by a consumers' group to refuse trades licences to retailers who deal in the controversial trading stamps.

Council will consult its solicitor for an opinion on whether a municipality, is the proper body to enact legislation which would interfere with trade.

The request was made by representatives of Victoria branch of Canadian Association of Consumers, retail merchants' group of Victoria Chamber of Commerce, Greater Victoria service station operators and Victoria Automotive Dealers' Association.

The groups also asked council to support the campaign aimed at getting a Criminal Code amendment making trading stamps illegal.

VICIOUS

Chamber assistant secretary Arnold Webb read a brief supporting the CAC stand in which was said the system contributes nothing to sound economic status, is "vicious," and "at worst can be downright fraudulent."

Promoters, largely in New York and Chicago, sell books of stamps to retailers together with catalogues of premiums which consumers may obtain for a certain number of stamps. They obtain stamps from retailers when merchandise is bought.

Cost of supporting the scheme usually ends up added to the price of retail goods, he said.

Although the Criminal Code specifically outlaws stamps, as the law presently reads it allows for evasion.

Vancouver and Victoria have already passed resolutions along the lines requested by the merchants' groups.

Coun. J. Ronald Grant said he doubted if the municipality is the proper body to legislate on matters of trade and commerce, which according to the BNA Act falls to the jurisdiction of the federal government.

New Waterfront Plan at Nanaimo

Street Along Harbor Included
In Proposal Revealed by Mayor

NANAIMO—A master plan to develop the waterfront here from Brechin Point to Commercial Inlet, a distance of almost two miles, was announced by Mayor Peter Maffeo at a city council meeting Monday night.

Based on a study by Arthur Leynard, city engineer, it calls for the purchase of eight water lots behind Commercial Street for $6,500.

Part of the plan is to create a new waterfront street at the rear of the business section. Federal government has a scheme allied with the proposed development calling for construction of a customs dock, fishermen's float, and landing for the Gabriola Island ferry.

Applications for foreshore and water lot leases to individuals for terms of more than one year will be opposed by the council.

"As future plans of the city materialize, some of these sites will be required for city purposes," aldermen said. "A bridge to Newcastle Island will be required at some future date, sites may be required for pumping stations in the Brechin sewer system, and outlets for storm drains will be needed."

Ald. P. J. Piper reported a council committee had received a "very fair" hearing from the municipal affairs department regarding council's appeal to form a Greater Nanaimo sewage board similar in operation to Greater Nanaimo Water Board.

BCHIS to Cover Some Chronics

Polio, Arthritic Patients To Gain Under New Plan

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

The B.C. government plans to amend the Hospital Insurance Act at the next session of the Legislature to provide coverage for chronically sick persons who require rehabilitation or other intensive treatment services.

Aim of the new legislation is to extend hospital insurance to patients who continue to need hospital care but do not require all the special services of active hospital treatment.

At present, it is not proposed to extend insurance to persons receiving nursing home care or bedridden, aged or infirm patients.

The new plan will apply particularly to polio patients who need treatment after leaving hospital and persons suffering from arthritic complaints.

At present hospital insurance is limited to patients undergoing treatment in hospital.

It is most likely that the opinions he receives will have a direct bearing on the final form the legislation will take.

The new coverage, after approved by the House, could be extended to these categories of out-patients within the next six months.

"Much will depend on the volume of proposals from interested groups within the next few weeks," the spokesman said.

IDEAS SOUGHT

"Mr. Martin will outline the program at this meeting and invite suggestions," a health department spokesman said. "Later he hopes to hold meetings with other interested groups so that their opinions and recommendations may be obtained."

Model UN Assembly Plan for Students

Victoria and Vancouver Island high school students will take part in a model United Nations assembly which will be held at Central Junior High School March 2 and 3.

The project will be sponsored by Business and Professional Women's Club in co-operation with the UN Association, Victoria branch.

Invitations are now going out to all Vancouver Island high schools to send two delegates each.

In announcing the sessions, Miss Verna Beek, representing the B.P.W., said: "We hope to obtain a nucleus for the organization from students who have already attended United Nations seminars at the University of British Columbia."

The entire assembly will be handled by the students. The project is part of a nationwide campaign to better acquaint the public with the workings of the international round-table organization.

It is planned that sessions will be an annual event, perhaps being held in other island centres in years to follow.

President of the UN Association here, J. H. Ford, will assist with arrangements. Dean Neville Scarfe of University of B.C. will officiate at the opening of the first assembly on the evening of March 1.

CITY SHIPS IN HOT WEATHER

Calm Seas, Sunshine For Church Services

Ex-navy officer Stuart Keate, publisher of the Victoria Daily Times, is aboard HMCS Ontario for the first leg of a three-month training cruise. His dispatches are being filed by wireless from the ship.

ON BOARD HMCS ONTARIO — After six days of wallowing on a relentless Pacific swell, the Canadian navy's training squadron of HMCS Ontario, Jonquiere and Stettler finally found calm seas and sunny skies, Sunday.

It couldn't have come at a better time for Chaplains Horatio Todd of Victoria, Jean-Paul Belanger of Rimouski and Louis M. Lafontaine of Ottawa. Chaplains Todd and Belanger held communion services in Ontario at 7.30 a.m. Sunday, while Father Lafontaine, a reservist and a Dominican monk, went away in a breeches buoy in mid-Pacific to minister to Roman Catholic sailors on board the frigate Stettler.

IMMACULATE — Advent of balmy weather made it possible for Ontario to hold divisions at 10.30 a.m., followed by religious services for both Protestant and Roman Catholic faiths. Capt. Robert P. Welland, DSC and bar, of Victoria, read the lesson at the Protestant service while the men in immaculate blue service dress stood with heads bared under a blue Pacific sky. As the big cruiser ambled pleasantly along, the men sang such favorite hymns as "Holy Holy" and "Eternal Father" with its well-known supplication for those in peril on the sea.

Bandmaster Bob McKay of Victoria led the ship's band of 15 pieces during the service, while Padre Todd enjoined the ship's company to sing as lively as you can, lads.

Officers in charge is Maj. Ross Dunbar, Vancouver, with Victoria soldiers from Work Point handling the operation.

Shells formerly stored in lower Vancouver Island magazines were to leave Nanaimo today consigned to NATO countries.

A total of 347 tons of ammunition, including six-inch, 12-pounders and 12 hundredweight shells, will leave on Ms. Lake Pennask for Norway and Portugal as part of Canada's NATO commitment.

Coast and harbor defence units have been disbanded and guns have already been shipped away, some to NATO countries.

MONTE ROBERTS' BETWEEN TIMES ON SICK LIST

Reluctant Judge Gives Soldier Suspended Term

With "some reluctance," Magistrate H. C. Hall today gave a suspended sentence to a Work Point Barracks soldier who admitted obtaining nearly $700 in goods by false pretences from T. Eaton department store.

Ronald Brewer was ordered to post a $1,000 good behavior bond and report monthly for one year to a probation officer.

Counsel said arrangements for restitution had been made and Brewer's army pay had been assigned. It was previously stated that $100 worth of goods had been recovered.

Magistrate Hall said he was ordering a suspended sentence because it was Brewer's first conviction and he had a wife and small child to support. A jail term would mean a discharge from the army, the magistrate said.

Brewer admitted opening up a charge account at the store a week before Christmas, using another man's name, and making the purchases quickly in a number of departments.

ALBERNI TOO SMALL

Zoo Owner Wants To Move Here

Paul Hertel, operator of a wild life zoo at Alberni that has become a major tourist attraction in the Alberni Valley, is anxious to move to Victoria.

"It would take me only two months to move if I could find a site in the Victoria area," he told the Times today. "I would like to be set up by the first of May."

Last November he had made up his mind to move his zoo to Bear Creek Park in Surrey, south of New Westminster, and he still might set up a branch of his zoo there.

LIKES VICTORIA

"But I still like the idea of establishing in Victoria," he said. "We need more admissions to keep the zoo going than we can draw in the Alberni area."

He needs a minimum of 20 acres of land, and more if possible, preferably well away from residential areas. A good water supply must be available.

Mr. Hertel became interested in animals three years ago, when he acquired two cougar kittens to test a theory of his that animals would respond to consistent and constant kindness and affection.

"Hans" and "Fritz" now weigh over 200 pounds each, yet go for walks in nearby woods with their master without leashes or restrictions.

THEY COME BACK

"When they are tired of playing they come back to me and we all go home together," he said.

He then acquired other animals, visitors heard of them and began to call, and eventually he found he was not a logger any more, but a zoo-keeper.

He now has three cougars, four African lions, two bears, two wolves, two coyotes, several foxes, peacocks from South America, monkeys, a seal, sea lion, deer, elk, a porcupine, wild geese, peacocks, swans, owls, eagles, and an emu from Australia.

"A zoo here would be a real tourist attraction," he said. "We had 30,000 visitors last year in Alberni, and should get many more than that in Victoria."

The federation engaged Dr. Hope to study costs after protesting the Milk Board's formula for setting the price producers receive for their milk.

His report is expected to suggest a more equitable formula but details are not yet available. Dr. Hope visited B.C. last October to gather material.

B.C. dairy farmers have complained that their operational costs have increased to the extent that in 1955 they received 29 per cent less net income than in 1951.

The new board will ask a budget of $112,614—an increase of $4,000 over estimates in 1956.

Today's meeting was expected to ask Greater Victoria Water District to install a stand-by chlorination unit as a standby to take over in emergencies.

Whirlwind B.C. Polio Fund collections, sponsored by the B.C. Kinsmen Clubs, open in Victoria next week with a business mail campaign.

More than 1,400 letters asking donations will be sent to firms in Greater Victoria.

The "Kinettes," wives of local Vic-Van-Isle Kinsmen, will meet at Polio Fund Headquarters, 710 Johnson Street, on Wednesday morning to begin the chore of "stuffing" envelopes.

Provincial goal has been set at $100,000, covering a $50,000 school of rehabilitation at UBC, a $150,000 child rehabilitation centre to be established in conjunction with the UBC school of medicine, $150,000 to continue a polio care program, and $50,000 for other rehabilitation expenses.

Last year Victoria contributed $16,000 to a $250,000 total.

The month-long campaign will end with a "Mothers' March" on Greater Victoria Feb. 16, between 6.30 and 7.30 p.m.

More than 3,000 mothers are needed to canvass 36 districts in the area. Volunteers may leave their names at the fund headquarters, or by phoning 5-4489.

Sidney and Central Saanich will be canvassed by the new Sidney Kinsmen Club, organized last month.

Chairman of the local campaign is Ted Hamer. Campaign secretaries are Miss Beryl Wilson and Mrs. A. Fyfe.

A single man will be allowed $45.50 for a two-day trip, one trip only.

First group to go to the new plant will be mechanics, to deal with installation of machines. They leave at the beginning of July.

Employees who have expressed the wish to go to Vancouver will be alerted six months ahead as to when their particular groups shift.

Work has already started on the new plant and is expected to be completed in about two years. Movement of personnel from Victoria will be spread over this time.

The move of Sidney Roofing, brought about by high freight charges between here and the mainland, means a payroll loss of more than $1,000,000 annually to Victoria.

335,744 CARS IN PROVINCE

Passenger motor vehicles in British Columbia reached a total of 335,744 at the end of 1956 — an increase of 37,348 over the previous year, statistics issued by the B.C. Motor Vehicles Branch revealed today.

Commercial motor vehicles climbed from 100,259 in 1955 to 107,223 in 1956.

But there was an unexpected drop in the number of motorcycles on B.C. roads from 3,701 in 1955 to 3,676 last year.

(In this column the Times presents letters from and to drivers about careless, discourteous or reckless infractions of driving rules. ### TODAY'S BEEFS

Every night just after 5 on the Trans-Canada Highway in the Langford area a yellow Ford Meteor does between 25 and 30 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone. His girl friend sits so close you'd think they were Siamese twins. This is why he is so pokey on the highway, holding up a long line of traffic. Maybe they could take the old highway where fewer people are driving, and let us get home to dinner on time.—S.M.

A small green English car went through a red light at Bay, narrowly missing a collision with my car, which was proceeding with the green light south on Douglas. The driver of the other car completely tied up four lanes of traffic while attempting to cross Douglas, as well as committing a very serious traffic offence.—W.A.R.

200 Paper Workers To Move to Burnaby

About 100 of the 200 employees here of Sidney Roofing and Paper Co. Ltd., which over the next two years will be moving to a new $7,000,000 plant in Burnaby, have said they will stay in Victoria, it was learned today.

Approximately 200 workers will move to Burnaby with the company, 75 per cent of whom are men with families.

House-hunting expenses will be paid by the company. Expenses provide up to $61 for a man and wife to take a two-day trip to the mainland seeking accommodation, or two separate trips of one day each for $45.50 per day. Married couples may make two trips of two days each.

A single man will be allowed $45.50 for a two-day trip, one trip only.

First group to go to the new plant will be mechanics, to deal with installation of machines. They leave at the beginning of July.

Employees who have expressed the wish to go to Vancouver will be alerted six months ahead as to when their particular groups shift.

Work has already started on the new plant and is expected to be completed in about two years. Movement of personnel from Victoria will be spread over this time.

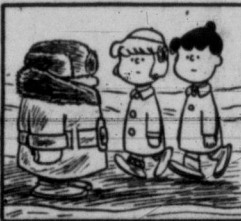

The move of Sidney Roofing, brought about by high freight charges between here and the mainland, means a payroll loss of more than $1,000,000 annually to Victoria.

A.—The most recent federal census, that of last June, counted the population of Oshawa at 64,428; at the 1951 census it was 51,582. In June, 1956, St. Catharines had 84,493 citizens.

Soup? Coffee? What Is Held In Mammoth Cup and Saucer?

By PENNY SAVER

I have never seen such a big cup and saucer! The "saucer" is a dinner plate size, and the cup, well, it's more the size of a soup tureen, which is just what it is (I think!). In a sea blue or dusky pink pattern, the tureen and plate have a detergent and acid resistant glaze that makes them even more attractive. A novelty gift, or a practical purchase for your home, it matches a well-known and liked dinnerware pattern. The price is $7.50.

Something else in the china line, is a set of cream and sugar jugs. They are shaped like graceful swans, white and black. For bridge prizes or little gifts, these are perfect, for they're just 98 cents a pair.

There's a good buy for someone wanting to spark up the kitchen. Waxed paper and paper towel dispensers of white enameled metal are patterned with flowers. The two dispensers are really one, with the waxed paper roll on top, and the paper towel roll below. To refill, you just flip down the front hinged section. As I said, this is a very good buy at just $1.49.

Restocking your linen cupboard? Extra pillows, sheets and blankets are often needed in most homes, so here's an opportunity to gather those extra items at a low cost. Pillows can be bought for as little as $1 each, and pastel tinted flannel sheets, large size, are just $2.49 each. Camp blankets are another good buy, at $2.95 each. They measure 54 by 72 inches.

Handbags for all occasions, for all colors are on sale at a special price of $5 in one of the local stores. Every shape and material is available at this reasonable price. Natural, tan, browns, black, blue... they're all there in the many different fabrics and leathers. Clutch bags or larger style-wise bags with handles are popular. Patent leather bags are available, too, at the same wonderful price.

Slightly damaged merchandise and odd lines make up the displays in many stores now that the holiday season is past. I noticed two large tables, laden with articles at less than half price. China, wrought iron, pounded silver and glassware, copper and brassware pieces for dining room, living room... any room in the house can be bought at remarkably low prices now.

Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where I found these items.

Tea and Card Party

The Grand Court of B.C., Order of Amaranth, will hold a tea and cards in the Douglas Room of the Hudson's Bay Company on Friday, from 2 to 4 p.m.

Hostesses will be Mizpah Court No. 2 and Coronation Court No. 6. Those wishing to play cards must supply their own cards and score pads.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Exercise Is Called For in Spot Reducing

Many women who are not overweight generally have pads of fat where they least want them. One of these areas is underneath the shoulder blades and arms and across the shoulders. In such specialized spot reducing you must depend on exercise.

The following one is splendid for fat across the shoulders and under the arms. Stand tall. Bend the right elbow and put the right arm around the back of your head, fingers of the right hand touching the left ear. Keep the right arm in this position as you bend to the left, coming as close as you can to touching the fingertips of the left hand to the left foot. Keep the right arm in the same position as you raise your trunk and bend straight forward as far as you can. Raise trunk. Continue slowly (right arm in same position)—bend first to the left, raise trunk and bend forward, raise trunk and continue. After a while place the left arm about the back of the head and bend to the right, etc.

A fatty deposit at the back of the neck usually is correlated with a dowager's hump. This is the result of poor posture. Exercise and massage help reduce this unattractive hump. We often see this in very young women, even some teenagers have it. You will find the following exercise effective. Stand tall. Bend both elbows and place the hands on the back of the head. Keep the hands in this position and push FORWARD with the hands as you push BACK with the head. Resist and continue. This should be done day and also do special exercises. If you would like to have my exercises for round shoulders send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 7. Address: Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

New York Visit Full Of Exciting Moments

When her family was young Mrs. Rene Lindgren had a home in Victoria. Since they have grown up she has given up that home and now she spends her days traveling about and visiting friends and relatives.

"It's interesting, it's rather fun, and I prefer it that way," is the way she tells you about it.

Recently she has returned to the Pacific Coast from a three-month visit (her first) to New York City. And she is bubbling with enthusiasm for the cosmopolitan centre "where so much is happening every hour of the day and night."

While in New York Mrs. Lindgren was the guest of her son Robert, one of television's leading dancers, and his lovely dancer wife, Sonya Tryven.

"They have a beautiful apartment," the proud mother says, "and they live high. Why, I found myself eating thick, expensive steaks every night."

When Robert Lindgren was a young lad, she remembers, he bought his first pair of ballet shoes with money he saved from his Victoria Daily Times paper route. Now, after years of study and successful performances, he is "tops" in his chosen profession.

He appeared in the New York TV production of "High Button Shoes," starring Nanette Fabray, and he was formerly a dancer on Sid Caesar's Hour.

He recently went on concert tour with his wife, Frederick Franklin and the famous Mme. Danilova, appearing in South Africa, France, Italy and Spain.

Mrs. Lindgren is particularly thrilled with New York's stage and in her opinion no one could over-report the merits of "My Fair Lady."

"It is the most marvelous production I've seen," raved Mrs. Lindgren, who feels that were she blind, it would have been worth her money to hear its music, and were she deaf, it would have been just as worthy on its basis of costuming and stage effects.

"I saw other shows... 'Teahouse of the August Moon' and so forth, but none of them could touch 'My Fair Lady.'"

Local Council to Assist CAC In Opposition to Trading Stamps

The trading stamp issue recently brought before Victoria Association of Consumers was under discussion Monday, when Mrs. J. L. Andrews, CAC representative, gave her report at meeting of the Local Council of Women.

A by-law is presently being drawn up in Victoria, Mrs. Andrews said, through which trade licences will be refused firms intending to use trading stamps.

The Local Council now will request the municipalities, Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt, to pass a similar by-law strengthening the Criminal Code dealing with this issue.

Mrs. Andrews explained that trading stamps were not new, but were known as far back as 1891. There was a new stamp boom in the United States in 1951, and recently in Eastern Canada.

The CAC has had reports that promoters have approached merchants in the Greater Victoria area with various trading stamp schemes, and they believe that immediate action should be taken to forestall the introduction of any of these schemes.

"Something for nothing, and free gifts, are the two ways in which promoters of trading stamps appeal to the buyers," stated Mrs. Andrews in her report. She went on to give the reasons for the opposition to the schemes: They add to the cost of distribution without adding to the value of the products; they stress the "bribe" of stamp instead of the quality of the product; they by-pass reduction in prices as a legitimate competitive weapon; they waste the time of the shopper as well as the sales staff; they will inevitably increase the cost of all merchandise as all retailers will be forced into using them.

INFLATION DANGER

As another appeal against trading stamps, Mrs. Andrews stated that at the outset of a new year, 1957, with predictions of greater spending and already high prices expected to rise another four per cent, inflation is a danger. The Greater Victoria area has a higher proportion of its population on fixed incomes than most Canadian centres.

"The prevention of any further reduction in the already dwindling dollar value is an important step in holding back inflation," the council also endorsed a letter sent by the CAC to Minister of Justice S. S. Garson, requesting the examination of the present legislation, under sections 322 and 369 of the Criminal Code, of Trading Stamp Sales Promotion Plans, and to take the requisite steps to amend or strengthen, if necessary, existing legislation so as to render illegal such a system.

MENTAL HEALTH FILM

Dr. Marian Sherman arranged for a film on mental health to be shown the meeting. The film, "Preface to a Life," dealt with the critical years in a child's life and how his developing personality is affected by the attitudes and actions of his family, friends and neighbors.

Frontiersmen to Form Honor Guard

Full dress uniforms of Canada's Legion of Frontiersmen, crossed swords and a reception in the Bay Street Armory will add color and ceremony to the wedding this Saturday evening of Miss Sabine von Dewitz-Krebs and Mr. Jesse R. Green.

The wedding will take place in St. Aidan's Church at 7 p.m. All arrangements have been made by the commanding officer of E. Squadron, Canadian Legion of Frontiersmen, of which the groom-elect is a member. Members of the squadron, dressed in their full-dress uniforms—much like the RCMP only with blue tunics—will act as hosts for the occasion and form a guard of honor for the young couple as they leave the church.

It is believed this will be the first wedding ever sponsored by a Canadian Legion of Frontiersmen squadron.

Miss von Dewitz-Krebs came to this city a year ago. Her parents, Herr and Frau Oberrgat, A. D. Albrecht von Dewitz-Krebs, still live in Wiesbaden, Germany. They will be represented at the wedding by Baron and Baronin von Maydell of Victoria.

Mr. Green's parents are Mr.

Ottawa New HQ For Social Credit

National headquarters of the Social Credit League have been moved from Toronto to Ottawa, John D. Johnson, president of the Victoria Constituency Association, announced today.

"One of the reasons is that Ottawa is a more strategic location for the next federal election," Mr. Johnson said.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Frank Luxton, aged 11, of Lancaster, Penn., for his question:

Do Snow and Sleet Come Out of the Air in the Same Way?

Snow, rain, hail and sleet are, of course, all made in the air above the ground. They are all made from the same ingredient, which is water vapor. However, the weather uses different recipes to bring this water vapor down to earth. The different recipes produce different downpours. Different temperatures, winds and air pressure work on the vapor to make snow, rain, hail or sleet.

Water vapor is a gas. You cannot see it, smell it or taste it. It is made of fragments of water so small that nobody has ever seen one of them. The sun and the dry air soak it up from the sea, the rivers, the lakes and the damp earth. It floats aloft mixed with the other gases of the air. But only for a time. Sooner or later it must return to feed the plants, fill up the seas and provide our water supply.

The air must give up its vapor as it cools. The air cools as it rises. Once aloft, the vapor may be squeezed out in tiny droplets. It becomes a misty cloud. Then conditions change to make a downpour. The tiny cloud droplets may get together to form raindrops. The batches of raindrops in the cloud are too heavy to float aloft. Down they tumble. Usually the air below is warmer than the air in the cloud and the wet raindrops land with silvery splashes.

But once in a while the air near the ground is colder than the cloud. It may be cold enough to freeze the wet raindrops into slivers of ice as they fall. They are turned into gobs of sleet. Sleet is the weatherman's name for these smallish particles of clear ice. Some people use the word sleet to describe a slushy mixture of rain and snow. But the recipe for making real snow is different from the recipe for making sleet.

Snow is made directly from the gassy water vapor in the air. The cold squeezes the particles of vapor from the air straight into bitzy fragments of ice. There were no tiny wet droplets to get into raindrops. But the icy fragments of vapor do tend to gang up together. We call this process crystallization and it happens with fragments of many solid substances. Each substance has its own design for crystallizing. Crystallized water vapor must form a six-sided design.

Millions of icy fragments arrange themselves to form one snowflake. The design must be six-sided and each side must be exactly alike. These are the only rules. The snowflake may use pockets of air to space out the bitzy fragments of ice into a light, feathery dolly. Several small snowflakes may group themselves into a larger one. With millions of icy fragments to make each snowflake plus countless air pockets, you can see there are countless different six-sided designs to choose from. Each snowflake, it seems, builds a different dolly from all the rest.

Sleet has no chance to make a feathery design from air fragments of ice. The air in the cloud was warm enough to turn vapor to droplets and droplets to raindrops. The cold came later and turned the liquid raindrops into solid ice. The snowflakes ran into bitter cold before they had time to become liquid droplets or liquid raindrops.

Help With Grounds Asked by Art Gallery

Victoria Art Gallery has asked the city to provide one man, one day per week, to work on the gallery grounds.

Victoria council parks committee has delayed action on the request and will ask the gallery, whether a similar request has been made to all Greater Victoria municipalities.

In the past Victoria has assisted the gallery with annual grants but some other municipalities where gallery members and users reside have made no contribution.

Larger Police HQ Proposed by Council

Recommendations for immediate improvement of Saanich police quarters were made to the municipal police commission by Saanich council Monday.

"It seems to me we have allowed this situation to go on without any action taken... a shocking situation," said Coun. J. Ronald Grant.

The 19-man force is confined to three small basement rooms in Saanich municipal hall, and are totally lacking in many facilities.

Coun. Grant suggested possibility of a new police station or combined police and fire station. Existing conditions have their effect on morale, he said.

Coun. George Austin said: "I agree, but it's not only the police; it's the whole issue."

The reeve agreed the whole municipal employee - administrative quarters situation is inadequate.

Mr. Austin said he would be prepared to go ahead and build on the present hall if there was no recommendation for action from the joint hall committee set up by Saanich and Victoria.

A Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee recommendation to restrict parking in municipal parks after 10:30 p.m. was referred back to police commission for further consideration.

"I think we'll have to do something about Mount Tolmie," said Reeve Arthur Ash. He mentioned complaints of night-time parkers throwing beer bottles at doors of neighboring residents.

Coun. Grant was reluctant to have parking at the top of the viewpoint restricted, largely because of tourists, but agreed there could be limited parking in the residential area. "Sleeping dogs might well be left to sleep," he commented on the fact there had been no complaints since last summer.

Application from Central Saanich to be included in Saanich's emergency radio calls system for fire and ambulance was referred to public works and fire committee.

Central Saanich's existing emergency calls system is geared through the manual telephone exchange, where an operator is always on duty and relays calls to firemen.

Next year the municipality hopes to go on the dial tele-

McKenzie Steps Out Of VLC Elections

Victoria Labor Council president Jack McKenzie will not stand for re-election at the annual meeting Wednesday.

Three others, however, have been nominated and more could be nominated at the meeting itself.

In the running are Percy Raymond, who has resigned his full-time position as secretary-treasurer; Robert Barrie, president, Canadian Chemical and Explosives Workers, Federal 128, James Island, and Victor Midgley, carpenter's international representative.

Mr. McKenzie said he will not run again because of pressure of IWA negotiations.

phone system, and linking with the Saanich emergency set-up is the only alternative to the method now used.

The municipality plans to purchase an ambulance soon.

Chief draftsman in Saanich engineering department, David Deeprose, was named probationary planning administrator and will attend a week-long course in community planning to be held soon at University of B.C.

Council agreed to meet alternate Mondays through the year, with committee meetings on Mondays not taken by council.

Coun. Leslie Passmore asked for a round-table discussion with school board of district 61 in order to obtain answers to inquiries concerning the $5,600, 000 school building by-law defeated at December elections.

He said many ratepayers have asked about the by-law, which will be presented in referendum again, and specific answers are not known to most councillors.

Frank L. Beebe, 4146 Grange, applying on behalf of a group interested in starting a zoological park in Saanich, will be invited to meet with the parks committee to present tentative plans.

Victoria council welfare committee Monday authorized welfare administrator William Hooson to speak to the TPC in support of a committee move to open all parts of the city to nursing and boarding homes, regardless of present zoning.

Ald. Mrs. Wilson's committee was opposed last year in the move by a group of Rockland residents. Two applications for homes for the elderly in the Rockland area are now pending.

It was suggested the 1956 zoning by-law be altered to permit establishment of nursing homes wherever 60 per cent of the closest neighbors were in agreement.

Mr. Hooson felt residents would not agree in most cases and pointed out "opposition" usually fades after a licence is granted. In every area where such development has taken place the property and the property surrounding has increased in value.

He said at present five out of eight existing hospitals for the aged and seven out of 13 boarding homes are in restricted areas and "eventually will go out of use."

Where a nursing home is now located in a residential area it is classed as a non-conforming use and in event of interruption of services, or a damaging fire, licence to operate in the same locality would be denied.

In 1924, by a majority vote of the congregation, First Presbyterian became part of the United Church of Canada, and in 1925, adopted the new name of First United Church.

Initial services, conducted by Rev. John Hall, former missionary of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland, were held in Moore's Hall, upstairs at the corner of Yates and Langley Streets.

Corner stone of the new church was laid at the corner of Blanshard Street and Pandora in 1863 by Chief Justice David Cameron.

The church was opened and dedicated in November of that year.

Second minister of the new church was Rev. Thomas Somerville, who quarrelled with his congregation in 1866 and resigned to organize the Presbyterian Church.

Left without a minister, the congregation found it impossible to continue and the church was closed from 1867 to 1876.

In 1913 the church on Blanshard Street had become too small to accommodate the increasing congregation. A lot was purchased at the corner of Quadra and Balmoral Streets and on May 2, 1915, the present church was opened and dedicated.

Initial services, conducted by Rev. John Hall, former missionary of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland, were held in Moore's Hall, upstairs at the corner of Yates and Langley Streets.

Corner stone of the new church was laid at the corner of Blanshard Street and Pandora in 1863 by Chief Justice David Cameron.

The church was opened and dedicated in November of that year.

Second minister of the new church was Rev. Thomas Somerville, who quarrelled with his congregation in 1866 and resigned to organize the Presbyterian Church.

Left without a minister, the congregation found it impossible to continue and the church was closed from 1867 to 1876.

In 1913 the church on Blanshard Street had become too small to accommodate the increasing congregation. A lot was purchased at the corner of Quadra and Balmoral Streets and on May 2, 1915, the present church was opened and dedicated.

In 1924, by a majority vote of the congregation, First Presbyterian became part of the United Church of Canada, and in 1925, adopted the new name of First United Church.

Rocklands Nursing Home Petition To Be Revived

The large old homes of the Rockland area are ideally suited to conversion to nursing homes, regardless of present zoning.

Ald. Mrs. Wilson's committee was opposed last year in the move by a group of Rockland residents. Two applications for homes for the elderly in the Rockland area are now pending.

It was suggested the 1956 zoning by-law be altered to permit establishment of nursing homes wherever 60 per cent of the closest neighbors were in agreement.

Mr. Hooson felt residents would not agree in most cases and pointed out "opposition" usually fades after a licence is granted. In every area where such development has taken place the property and the property surrounding has increased in value.

He said at present five out of eight existing hospitals for the aged and seven out of 13 boarding homes are in restricted areas and "eventually will go out of use."

Where a nursing home is now located in a residential area it is classed as a non-conforming use and in event of interruption of services, or a damaging fire, licence to operate in the same locality would be denied.

Dance Caller's Funeral Set for Wednesday

Prayers will be said in Chaplin's Funeral Chapel tonight at 7 for John Mooney, 42, of 4081 Cedar Hill Road.

One of the Island's most-gifted square dance callers, Mr. Mooney died suddenly Saturday.

He first began calling for square dancing in 1951 and has conducted a beginners' class each year. He also helped organize the B.C. Teachers and Callers' Association.

AWARD Among his projects was the Western Square Dance Association, which will recommend a posthumous award of the Silver Spur for his services to square dancing on Vancouver Island.

An American magazine makes the award to people who "help bring the true spirit of square dancing to their fellow men."

Mr. Mooney is survived by his wife, Alice; a son, Stephen, 16; a daughter, Cathie, 10, and his mother, Mrs. Mary Mooney, of Winnipeg.

Funeral services will be conducted at St. Andrew's Cathedral Wednesday at 10 a.m., and interment will follow at Royal Oak Cemetery.

Covered Horse Ring Planned At Thetis by Colwood Riders

Approval from the city will be sought by Colwood Trail Riders' Club for permission to construct a covered ring for horse shows at Thetis Lake Park.

Wes Goddard, president, told the club's annual meeting Monday that construction of the covered ring would start this summer if council approved.

City engineer J. C. Garnett, as a water commissioner, has yet to approve the leasing of the land on the Thetis Lake watershed before the matter is submitted to council for approval.

The club has not selected a definite site for the project but it has been suggested that the covered ring be located beyond the rifle range.

Mr. Goddard said the covered ring would permit the club to have horse shows all year round and give the members something to do during the winter months.

He said the size of the covered ring has yet to be determined.

"It will be available to outside clubs for horse shows," he said. "We plan to hold both English and Western horse shows."

Officers elected at the meeting were: Mr. Goddard, president; Tony Ashdowne, vice-president; Connie Walker, acting-secretary, and Floyd Adams, treasurer.

Two Jet Fliers Plucked From Peak; Pair Missing

EVERYTHING UNOFFICIAL —FOR 9 YEARS

BARRIE, Ont. (CP)—Barrie's town council learned Monday night it apparently has been sitting unconstitutionally for the last nine years.

During the first 1957 meeting councillors had occasion to refer to rules of procedure printed in 1933.

The first rule states: The town council shall meet in the fire hall. Since 1948 council has met in offices across the road from the fire hall.

Dulles Warns Again Ike Plan Vital to Peace

WASHINGTON (CP)—State Secretary Dulles said today that if congress turns down President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine enemies may get out of hand with "a very great likelihood" U.S. troops may have to fight there.

He also said the U.S. could not go into partnership with Britain and France in any Middle East plan.

"I cannot think of anything that would more surely turn the area over to international communism than to go in there hand in hand" with Britain and France, Dulles said.

Dulles was asked at the second day of Senate committee hearings what countries the U.S. would call on for help if the contemplated Eisenhower doctrine got the Americans into war.

Dulles replied that in case of war the U.S. expected to get help from the 42 nations with whom it has collective security agreements. Britain and France would come under NATO.

Jail Terms Given Two Men Captured By Armed Loggers

PORT ALBERNI — Albert John Alexander and Wilfred Ernest Coull, who were held at gunpoint Sunday at Sarita River pending arrival of RCMP for official arrest, today were sentenced in police court here.

They pleaded guilty to several charges of theft, and were sentenced by Magistrate Thomas Patterson to terms totalling two and one-half years for Alexander, and two years for Coull.

They were apprehended at gunpoint by logger A. Kachanoski and T. J. Blower, personnel manager at the Sarita River logging camp.

VANCOUVER (CP)—An RCAF spokesman said today air force investigators believe Sunday's mid-air jet crash near Squamish, 40 miles north of here, came when one T-33 jet aircraft came up underneath and struck the other T-33 while following it in formation.

The spokesman said the two men in the lead jet—FO Ray Martin and FO Bernard McCormack, both rescued Monday night—had no warning of the crash, witnessed by several persons.

Search began at dawn today for the other two missing fliers who are presumed to have died. They were Ftl. Lt. Buton Patkau, 27, of Toronto and Vancouver, and his passenger, Flying Officer Roderick Atkins, 19.

Earlier, the pilot of the lead jet, FO Martin, said the planes "did not collide."

One of two men rescued, FO Martin said from his bed in his bed in Squamish hospital that the "plane caught fire."

"My first reaction when the flame hit my face was to pull the canopy and eject."

He said FO McCormack, also rescued, bailed out with him as the plane exploded.

Martin said he had no idea there was another aircraft down until told by his rescuers. He said he had seen another aircraft circling above as the two drifted down in their parachutes and thought the canopy from his plane may have hit the other plane.

Martin, his face and hands bandaged from burns suffered in the crash, was buoyantly happy as he chatted with newspaper men from his hospital bed.

TOO LATE TO COMPLAIN
"I was very glad the parachute opened," he joked. "It was too late to complain if anything was wrong."

Martin said the ejection and jump were far easier than expected. It was his first parachute jump.

He said he came down one-quarter mile from McCormack, who seemed to be drifting away.

"I yelled at McCormack, but I didn't know whether he heard me. He waved his arms back at me."

After landing, Martin built a fire and wrapped himself in a ground sheet and his parachute. About 24 hours later, after watching planes fly overhead almost constantly, Martin was joined by his rescuers.

"I was damned glad to see the rescue party," he said.

First to reach Martin's side was LAC Lloyd Franks, 23, one of three para-rescuers dropped into the mountainous area.

"I have some experience with parachute jumps, and that was one of the most daring I've ever seen—right onto snow covered cliffs into the depths of tall timber," said Wing Cmdr. A. L. Bocking, in charge of the search.

Franks, who drifted off course, extricated himself from a tree and set off on foot.

He was joined shortly by Squamish loggers John Wattski and Chris Wyson, and said there was an almost comic exchange between him and Martin when they met on the snow-covered mountain.

Martin, smiling cheerfully, was dressed in a sagging green fishing hat and logging boots and had a lumberjack's shirt on over his flying suit.

Franks said he hadn't been told the name of the man he was looking for and asked several times who the stranger was. The reply each time was "Martin."

POINTED SKYWARDS
Franks asked him finally whether he was the RCMP and Martin replied, pointing skywards: "I bailed out."

Led by the two loggers, the men made their way down the mountain and Martin was brought to hospital. Hospital authorities said his burns are not serious and will probably leave no scars.

FO McCormack, 21-year-old first officer with Trans-Canada Air Lines, plucked by helicopter from the rugged bush, gave first thought to his family.

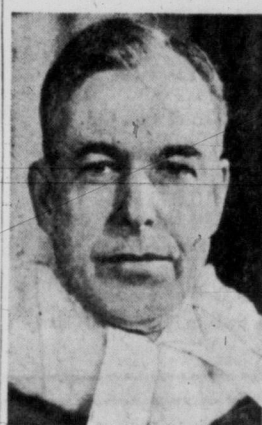

"Notify my relatives, do they know?" he muttered to the crew of the helicopter after being picked up. Then he closed his eyes. He spoke once more during the trip from Squamish to Vancouver, where he was placed in hospital, and that was to thank his rescuers.

He was being treated today for severe burns to his hands and face and for exposure. His eyes were almost swollen shut.

After a circling aircraft found McCormack lying, apparently unconscious, in the snow beside a fire, two para-rescue men were dropped in. But they found him in the snow and had to be pulled back again by a helicopter lowering a nylon cable.

The helicopter returned to Squamish and flew out again with the two para-rescue men, this time equipped with snowshoes. They were lowered onto a lake about a half-mile from McCormack.

One climbed the mountainside and half carried McCormack down to the lake where he was picked up by the hovering helicopter.

Gov't Ready to Hike NHA Interest Rates

ARCTIC FREEZE HITS FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN

By The Canadian Press

A massive body of throat-catching cold air clung to most of Canada today, tumbling temperatures to Arctic depths.

Ottawa registered an overnight low of 32 below, worst in the country among the weather office's list of official readings.

Wind Hits 72 MPH More Due Tonight

Wind-chafed Victoria can look forward to more gales and freezing temperatures overnight but continued sunny skies Wednesday may ease the nip.

Northeast gales averaged 40 miles an hour overnight, with gusts to 72 at 7:30 this morning, knocking out 50 telephone lines in Greater Victoria, one trunk power line and several domestic lines.

Police, fire and works departments reported no serious damage but fences were downed, tree limbs broken, sidewalk awnings damaged and street barriers blown over by winds whistling through the city.

FIREMEN BUSY

City firemen answered 12 calls to chimney fires, Saanich fire department handled five calls and Oak Bay one.

Wind gusting in the harbor this morning forced the Princess Elizabeth, en route to Seattle, to call for aid of a tug-boat to get out of harbor.

Up-Island at Courtenay, about 400 long-distance lines are still being repaired after snow and ice interrupted service at the weekend.

Hopes to Speed-Up Building of Homes

OTTAWA (CP)—The government may soon move to boost the interest rate ceiling under the National Housing Act to encourage a greater flow of mortgage money for house building, it was learned today.

The maximum rate of 5½ per cent allowed for government-insured mortgage loans may be raised to 6 per cent, perhaps before the opening of the spring building season, informants said.

Works Minister Winters hint-

Room for Optimism

He added, that it will be up to the banks to decide how they will distribute their investment funds. But he made clear that for builders, there was room for optimism.

In 1956, as federal credit curbs took effect, the banks restricted loans to speculators and other mass builders. Some of these firms had to go out of business.

With money tight and interest rates rising, the banks and other lending institutions also found it more favorable to invest funds with higher yields. Under the NHA, the maximum interest rate for loans insured by the government's Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation was held to 5½ per cent.

On non-insured conventional housing loans, in which the banks cannot invest, the interest rates rose to 6½ per cent and even 7 per cent.

For some time, federal officials have been pondering what action to take. There was some hesitancy to increase the maximum NHA rate, primarily because it might lead to an increase in competition for funds and cause general interest rates to edge up still farther.

However, the matter has been under constant review and it

Saw Rich Widow Die, Pumped Full of Drugs

By EDDY GILMORE

EASTBOURNE, England (AP)—The nurse who attended 51-year-old Mrs. Edith Morrell testified today that Dr. John Bodkin Adams used a giant-sized hypodermic syringe to pump the wealthy widow full of drugs just before she died.

Adams, pudgy 57-year-old society physician in this fashionable seaside resort, has been accused of drugging three wealthy patients to death because of his "greed for money."

The court now is hearing preliminary evidence on a charge that Dr. Adams murdered Mrs. Morrell more than six years ago after enslaving her with drugs and getting her to change her will in his favor.

After the hearing, expected to last through the week, the court of five magistrates will decide whether Adams should stand trial before a judge and jury.

The nurse, first witness at today's session, was Miss Caroline Randall, who watched by the bedside as Mrs. Morrell died. She testified that Dr. Adams came to Mrs. Morrell's house on Nov. 12, 1950—the night before she died—and brought a 5 c.c. syringe which he filled and asked the nurse to inject.

"Is that the normal type of syringe to use?" assistant crown counsel Malcolm Morris asked the nurse.

"No," she replied. "It was bigger. The normal was a 1 or 2 c.c. syringe."

The nurse said she did not know what the injection was but gave it to Mrs. Morrell on the doctor's orders, then followed it up three hours later with a similar injection prepared by Adams.

Mrs. Morrell developed spasms but, the nurse testified, "she gradually became quiet and had a peaceful end. She just passed away quietly."

Two other nurses testified that they didn't know what the injections were and that the doctor wouldn't tell them.

Dr. Adams barely looked up from behind his thick-lensed glasses as one nurse after the other testified for the crown.

PRANKSTER...CYNIC...COURAGEOUS...DEVOTED

(From Reuters and UP Dispatches)

HOLLYWOOD — Humphrey Bogart, filmdom's tough guy, fought a battle he couldn't win.

Although he didn't know it, he was doomed more than a year ago.

His physician, Dr. Maynard Brandt, said today that he withheld the truth from Bogart that the operation last March for cancer of the esophagus could not save him.

Cancer had spread through his system.

Fellow actor John Huston will deliver the eulogy.

Bogart was a hard-drinking, prankish extrovert whose heart was as soft as his screen lines were hard.

He loved to stir things up—"to touch a nerve." And how he hated press releases.

"That stuff stinks," he said. "The only way to get publicity is to be an exciting enough personality."

He was. He explained how he became a character: "By doing as I damned please."

In 1949, for example, Bogie was hauled into a New York court for flooring a cutie in a nightclub in a fight over a fuzzy toy panda. The press descended upon the actor with a delicate question: Was he drunk?

Bogart, his face lined with the memories of a thousand parties, snorted, "Certainly. Isn't everybody drunk at 4 a.m.?"

Bogart was always available for comment on anything from young male stars ("no color, no imagination") to non-drinkers ("I don't trust 'em") to TV dramas ("stupid stories acted by guys trying to be Marlon Brando.")

During most of his Hollywood career, Bogart was under contract to Warner studio. He and Jack Warner were often at war. During one contract fight, Bogart told New York newsmen, "Jack Warner is a creep."

Warner chastised the actor for the remark.

"Jack," replied Bogart, looking hurt, "you don't even know what I mean by creep."

"I have a dictionary right here before me," said Warner. "It means a loathsome, crawling thing."

"But Jack," said the indignant Bogart, "I spelled it with a 'K'."

Young Humphrey was a rebel from the start. The son of two busy parents, his father a well-known New York physician, he was reared without much guidance and was tossed out of Phillips Academy at Andover, Mass., for "uncontrollable" high spirits.

He enlisted in the navy during the First World

War rather than face his parents.

U.K. PAPERS MOURN DEATH OF BOGART

LONDON — Every one of Britain's nine big national newspapers today lament the death of Humphrey Bogart in moving tributes to the Hollywood actor.

This morning there was a thread of genuine sadness running through every obituary, from the restrained assessment of Bogart's acting ability in The Times to the tribute in the Communist Daily Worker calling him "the gentle tough guy."

Nobuddy'll replace Bogie cuz his was a sneer you cud cheer.

Publicity Boost Urged by Curtis

Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau should reap the benefits when trade licence revenues are increased by the city, according to Ald. Austin Curtis.

He submitted a report to council Monday on his own findings of the two-man trade licence committee set up in December.

His recommendations were in direct opposition to those of Ald. J. Donald Smith, who chaired the committee, then quit when council would not act on his proposals.

Ald. Smith had asked revision of the licence structure and imposition of business tax immediately with new revenues being diverted to reduce the mill rate.

Await New Municipal Act

Ald. Curtis says no revision of licensing should be undertaken until the provincial government completes revision of the Municipal Act, probably at the coming session of the Legislature.

"I recommend imposing of business tax should be dropped," he added.

Ald. Curtis is chairman of the 1957 trade licence committee, which includes Ald. E. D. McEwen and Ald. Hugh Ramsay.

Ald. Smith has launched a radio and newspaper advertising campaign in a one-man crusade for public support of business tax.

Friction generated by the two opposing points of view has erupted at council level at the last two meetings, with Mayor Percy Scurrell strongly opposing Ald. Smith.

Here are the recommendations of Ald. Curtis:

1. Action on trade licence revision should await provincial delegation of businessmen who agreed to a very heavy increase in licence fees providing the bureau was granted a minimum of $25,000 per annum, with the result the fees were increased approximately 50 per cent.

"The present grant to the bureau is $32,500, but in purchase power this amount is much less today than the amount agreed upon in 1923."

Ald. Smith says he would use any new revenues from business tax or revision of licensing for reduction of property taxes.

Ald. Curtis says imposition of a business tax as recommended by Ald. Smith would cost up to $30,000 to set in motion.

But he added, "It may be that in a year or two, as a result of more intimate knowledge and experience gained in the meantime... a change from trade licence to business tax may be considered advisable."

... BOGART

gort finally clicked as the killer Duke Mantee in "The Petrified Forest." He won filmdom's highest honor, the Academy Award, for "The African Queen."

Although the film community was aware of the gravity of Bogart's illness, it was stunned by his death. Among the comments:

Bing Crosby—"Bogie was a fine person and a superb actor."

David Niven—"How Bogie would hate this—but God knows, it is a great personal loss to his friends and to audiences who loved him. He was a man of enormous bark and absolutely no bite."

The story of Bogart's last days is a tale of courage and devotion. Friends are convinced that the actor felt he would recover.

"Bogie had tremendous guts, will power and optimism," an intimate said.

Added another close friend, restaurateur Michael Romanoff: "Bogie never said anything to anyone that would indicate he knew he was going to die."

Helping to keep his spirits high was his devoted wife, Lauren Bacall.

When he first fell ill, she gave up her acting career to be at his side. Despite his growlings, there was no doubt about his admiration for her. Privately, he termed her "one of the great women of this town." She was with him constantly during the last few months.

Friends marvelled at how she took his death. She didn't break down. She told the news to friends and requested photographers not to come to the house this morning so the Bogart children could get off to school as usual. They are Stephen, 8, and Leslie, 4.

Miss Bacall also requested that donations be made to the American Cancer Society in lieu of flowers.

At his death he was a wealthy man who liked fine living. He owned a $160,000 whitewashed brick home, two Jaguars, three dogs (Boxers) and a $35,000 boat.

Despite his gruffness, Bogie was a warm, tender person. He regarded his wife, "Betty" Bacall, with pride and affection. He openly cried at their wedding ceremony. And once, when asked if he wanted to leave any part of his life, he said:

"Yes—the time I was courting Betty."

Garson Pledges
Newsprint Hike
Statement

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Garson, who administers federal anti-combines legislation, said today he would be "glad to make a statement" Wednesday on recent increases in the price of newsprint.

Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg-North Centre) asked him in the Commons whether, in view of the price increases, the restrictive trade practices commission would investigate "to determine whether there are any elements of price-fixing or restraint of trade."

The Bowater Paper Co. Monday announced a price rise of $4 a ton for newsprint to a total $134 a ton delivered in New York. The move was in line with increases by three other newsprint companies.

In the past, price increases by one newsprint company have been followed by similar action by others.

Permanent Stand-by UN Police
Latest Proposal by Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson has coupled a proposal for a stand-by United Nations police force with a warning that to survive the General Assembly needs a moderate and constructive approach to its problems.

In making his proposal in the Commons Monday that Canada and other UN members keep part of their armed forces ready for UN police duty, Mr. Pearson said recent developments "have raised in our minds questions regarding" the future of the General Assembly.

Mr. Pearson also recommended that the UN Emergency Force be kept in Egypt until a Middle East political settlement is achieved and that its activities be extended to patrolling all Israel-Arab borders—with the consent of the nations involved.

On the assembly's future, he said recent developments have emphasized the gap between responsible and irresponsible UN membership. Britain and France headed UN recommendations; Russia treated UN resolutions with contempt when they cut across its own national policy. There was a growing tendency in the assembly to force through, by sheer voting strength, resolutions "that are impractical and at times quite unreasonable."

INTEREST WELCOMED

Mr. Pearson said the "ideas behind" President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine are welcomed by Canada "as evidence of the increased interest of the United States in the Middle East in terms of both defence and economic aid for the development of the area."

But he added he should point out that the president's declaration did not deal with conflict between non-Communist states in the Middle East nor with Communist subversion brought about by non-military means.

RELATIONS WITH U.S.

Discussing briefly Canadian-American relations, he said: "I think we (the Canadian government) have made it abundantly clear that our acknowledgment of the United States as the inevitable and indispensable leader of the free world does not at all imply automatic agreement with all its policies."

"I have even been told by some of my friends below the line that we have a tendency to make this fact almost unnecessarily clear."

The Diesel Issue!

The following statement was made at Ottawa,
January 11, 1957, by N. R. Crump, President,
Canadian Pacific Railway:

"Service on Canadian Pacific will be restored as quickly as safe operation of the lines can be assured and in some areas trains will be operating within a matter of hours; the longer delay in other areas will be caused by snow and winter conditions but it will not be long before the public has full Canadian Pacific service once again.

"From the outset of our differences with the Firemen's Union, Canadian Pacific has been motivated by its duty to provide safe, economical and what I consider to be truly efficient railway service. Finality of labour disputes is essential to railway transportation such as we provide; Canadian Pacific thought in order to bring that finality about any inquiry must be binding. Under the terms of the settlement reached there will be a judicial inquiry into the Diesel issue, as well as two subsidiary issues. There is no agreement that makes the decision binding but the Prime Minister and his colleagues, who have had much experience, stated in the House as well as to the parties concerned in the dispute that after the investigation which is now being arranged finality will be achieved. I have accepted this assessment.

"Thousands of Canadian Pacific customers have demonstrated in the last few days great patience and understanding. I do thank them for this and particularly for the many messages of encouragement they sent me.

"To all employees of Canadian Pacific, the strike has been a difficult period. On their return to work I know they, as in the past, will meet the challenge of providing to the public transportation service worthy of the great traditions of Canadian Pacific."

GRAIN QUOTATIONS

CHICAGO (AP)—A slightly easier tone prevailed in grain markets on the Board of Trade today. Dealings were slow.

Only exception to the slight decline was in oats, which scored small gains.

Oats and barley trade was on domestic lines, with majority of the activity in oats as coldest weather in both Canada and the U.S. stimulated feeding demand.

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat were down one-quarter cent from Monday.

3rd Straight Decline Due to Profit-Taking

Industrials recovered some ground but the Toronto stock market was still in the throes of its third decline of the year today.

Market observers said the decline was mostly a result of technical factors, such as profit-taking.

Steels took the brunt of selling as the New York market continued lower today. Losses ranged from fractions to around two points.

AT TORONTO Algoma Steel was the heaviest industrial loser, dropping 4 1/2 points. Trading on the stock, however, was light at 50 shares. Shawinigan was off three points, also on a 50-share turnover.

Falconbridge and International Nickel, each down 1 1/2 points, were the heavier senior base metal losers.

Western oils were led lower by Royaldale, down 1 1/2 points. Canadian Devonian 35 cents.

$1.2 Million Bid for B.C. Oil, Gas Land

A total of 1,073,000 acres of land for petroleum and natural gas exploration in the Peace River country was sold by tender Monday by the B.C. mines ministry.

Total value of the 12 bids accepted was $1,211,448.

Successful bidders were Triad, Sun, Texaco, Hudson's Bay and Imperial Oil companies.

Highest bids submitted were: Triad Oil Co., $31,000; Sun Oil, $162,736; Texaco, $76,000; Imperial Oil, $151,127; Imperial Oil, $132,241.

Representatives of the bidding companies, most of them from Calgary, travelled to Victoria for the opening of the bids by deputy mines minister J. F. Walker.

The accepted bids were announced by Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan.

Earlier, Mr. Kiernan announced that more than 160,000 acres of land in the southeastern corner of B.C. will be placed on the block for oil exploration next March.

The land will be leased to high bidders who want to search for oil in the Flathead areas of B.C. on the Alberta and Montana borders near Fernie.

"Many oil seeps have been observed in this area," Mr. Kiernan said, "and a number of oil companies have shown interest in it."

Saanich Careful On Trade Stamp Controversy

Saanich council Monday night moved cautiously on a request by a consumers' group to refuse trades licences to retailers who deal in the controversial trading stamps.

Council will consult its solicitor for an opinion on whether a municipality, is the proper body to enact legislation which would interfere with trade.

The request was made by representatives of Victoria branch of Canadian Association of Consumers, retail merchants' group of Victoria Chamber of Commerce, Greater Victoria service station operators and Victoria Automotive Dealers' Association.

The groups also asked council to support the campaign aimed at getting a Criminal Code amendment making trading stamps illegal.

VICIOUS
Chamber assistant secretary Arnold Webb read a brief supporting the CAC stand in which was said the system contributes nothing to sound economic status, is "vicious," and "at worst can be downright fraudulent."

Promoters, largely in New York and Chicago, sell books of stamps to retailers together with catalogues of premiums which consumers may obtain for a certain number of stamps. They obtain stamps from retailers when merchandise is bought.

Cost of supporting the scheme usually ends up added to the price of retail goods, he said. Although the Criminal Code specifically outlaws stamps, as the law presently reads it allows for evasions.

Vancouver and Victoria have already passed resolutions along the lines requested by the merchants' groups.

Coun. J. Ronald Grant said he doubted if the municipality is the proper body to legislate on matters of trade and commerce, which according to the BNA Act falls to the jurisdiction of the federal government.

New Waterfront Plan at Nanaimo

Street Along Harbor Included
In Proposal Revealed by Mayor

NANAIMO—A master plan to develop the waterfront here from Brechin Point to Commercial Inlet, a distance of almost two miles, was announced by Mayor Peter Maffeo at a city council meeting Monday night.

Based on a study by Arthur Leynard, city engineer, it calls for the purchase of eight water lots behind Commercial Street for $6,500.

Part of the plan is to create a new waterfront street at the rear of the business section. Federal government has a scheme allied with the proposed development calling for construction of a customs dock, fishermen's float, and landing for the Gabriola Island ferry.

Applications for foreshore and water lot leases to individuals for terms of more than one year will be opposed by the council.

"As future plans of the city materialize, some of these sites will be required for city purposes," aldermen said. "A bridge to Newcastle Island will be required at some future date, sites may be required for pumping stations in the Brechin sewer system, and outlets for storm drains will be needed."

Ald. P. J. Piper reported a council committee had received a "very fair" hearing from the municipal affairs department regarding council's appeal to form a Greater Nanaimo sewage board similar in operation to Greater Nanaimo Water Board.

BCHIS to Cover Some Chronics

Polio, Arthritic Patients To Gain Under New Plan

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

The B.C. government plans to amend the Hospital Insurance Act at the next session of the Legislature to provide coverage for chronically sick persons who require rehabilitation or other intensive treatment services.

Aim of the new legislation is to extend hospital insurance to patients who continue to need hospital care but do not require all the special services of active hospital treatment.

At present, it is not proposed to extend insurance to persons receiving nursing home care or bedridden, aged or infirm patients.

The new plan will apply particularly to polio patients who need treatment after leaving hospital and persons suffering from arthritic complaints.

PARLEY WEDNESDAY

In Vancouver Wednesday, Health Minister Eric Martin will meet with civic, religious, hospital, medical and other groups interested in what he terms "a new chronic treatment and convalescent coverage program."

The meeting, to be held in the Willows Chest Auditorium at 10 a.m., will be attended by representatives of a number of B.C. hospitals, including the Queen Alexandra Solarium and the Gorge Road Hospital, which provides care for long-term patients.

IDEAS SOUGHT

"Mr. Martin will outline the program at this meeting and invite suggestions," a health department spokesman said.

"Later he hopes to hold meetings with other interested groups so that their opinions and recommendations may be obtained."

"It is most likely that the opinions he receives will have a direct bearing on the final form the legislation will take."

The new coverage, after approved by the House, could be extended to these categories of outpatients within the next six months.

"Much will depend on the volume of proposals from interested groups within the next few weeks," the spokesman said.

Reluctant Judge Gives Soldier Suspended Term

With "some reluctance," Magistrate H. C. Hall today gave a suspended sentence to a Work Point Barracks soldier who admitted obtaining nearly $700 in goods by false pretences from T. Eaton department store.

Ronald Brewer was ordered to post a $1,000 good behavior bond and report monthly for one year to a probation officer. Counsel said arrangements for restitution had been made and Brewer's army pay had been assigned. It was previously stated that $100 worth of goods had been recovered.

Magistrate Hall said he was ordering a suspended sentence because it was Brewer's first conviction and he had a wife and small child to support. A jail term would mean a discharge from the army, the magistrate said.

Brewer admitted opening up a charge account at the store a week before Christmas, using another man's name, and making the purchases quickly in a number of departments.

ALBERNI TOO SMALL

Zoo Owner Wants To Move Here

Paul Hertel, operator of a wild life zoo at Alberni that has become a major tourist attraction in the Alberni Valley, is anxious to move to Victoria.

"It would take me only two months to move if I could find a site in the Victoria area," he told the Times today. "I would like to be set up by the first of May."

Last November he had made up his mind to move his zoo to Bear Creek Park in Surrey, south of New Westminster, and he still might set up a branch of his zoo there.

LIKES VICTORIA

"But I still like the idea of establishing in Victoria," he said. "We need more admissions to keep the zoo going than we can draw in the Alberni area."

He needs a minimum of 20 acres of land, and more if possible, preferably well away from residential areas. A good water supply must be available.

Mr. Hertel became interested in animals three years ago, when he acquired two cougar kittens to test a theory of his that animals would respond to consistent and constant kindness and affection.

"Hans" and "Fritz" now weigh over 200 pounds each, yet go for walks in nearby woods with their master without leashes or restrictions.

THEY COME BACK

"When they are tired of playing they come back to me and we all go home together," he said.

He then acquired other animals, visitors heard of them and began to call, and eventually he found he was not a logger any more, but a zoo-keeper.

He now has three cougars, four African lions, two bears, two wolves, two coyotes, several foxes, peccaries from South America, monkeys, a seal, sea lion, deer, elk, a porcupine, wild geese, peacocks, swans, owls, eagles, and an emu from Australia.

"A zoo here would be a real tourist attraction," he said. "We had 30,000 visitors last year in Alberni, and should get many more than that in Victoria."

Hans the cougar, pet of his master, zookeeper Paul Hertel of Alberni, will move to Victoria if Mr. Hertel's plans to locate zoo here materialize.

Milk Formula Report Soon

A report by Ottawa economist Dr. E. C. Hope on British Columbia's dairy production costs is to be presented to the Milk Board later this month, a spokesman for the B.C. Federation of Agriculture in Victoria said today.

The federation engaged Dr. Hope to study costs after protesting the Milk Board's formula for setting the price producers receive for their milk.

His report is expected to suggest a more equitable formula but details are not yet available. Dr. Hope visited B.C. last October to gather material.

B.C. dairy farmers have complained that their operational costs have increased to the extent that in 1955 they received 29 per cent less net income than in 1951.

Defeated Councillor Reappointed

Sammon Continues On Health Board

For the first time since its inception, Victoria-Esquamalt Union Board of Health will have a member this year who is not an elected official.

Chairman of the board for the last two years, G. K. Sammon will continue to represent Esquamalt despite his defeat at the municipal polls last December.

Election of chairman for the 1957 board was to take place later today, and it was considered likely Mr. Sammon would be returned due to several unfinished projects with which he became closely associated during his last year in office.

Chief among these is the expected inclusion of Oak Bay in the union health board this year, a project Mr. Sammon nursed to maturity.

Victoria city members are Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, Ald. J. Donald Smith and Ald. Austin Curtis. Ald. Smith will replace Ald. Robert Macmillan who was defeated at city elections.

The new board will ask a budget of $112,514—an increase of $4,000 over estimates in 1956. Today's meeting was expected to ask Greater Victoria Water District to install a secondary chlorination unit as a standby to take over in emergencies.

Polio Drive Opens Monday

Whirlwind B.C. Polio Fund collections, sponsored by the B.C. Kinsmen Clubs, open in Victoria next week with a busi-ness mail campaign.

More than 1,400 letters asking donations will be sent to firms in Greater Victoria.

The "Kinettes," wives of local Vic-Van-Isle Kinsmen, will meet at Polio Fund Headquarters, 710 Johnson Street, on Wednesday morning to begin the chore of "stuffing" envelopes.

Provincial goal has been set at $100,000, covering a $50,000 school of rehabilitation at UBC, a $150,000 child rehabilitation centre to be established in conjunction with the UBC school of medicine, $150,000 to continue a polio care program, and $50,000 for other rehabilitation expenses.

Last year Victoria contributed $16,000 to a $250,000 total. The month-long campaign will end with a "Mothers' March" on Greater Victoria Feb. 16, between 6.30 and 7.30 p.m.

More than 3,000 mothers are needed to canvass 36 districts in the area. Volunteers may leave their names at the fund headquarters, or by phoning 5-4489.

Sidney and Central Saanich will be canvassed by the new Sidney Kinsmen Club, organized last month.

Ammunition Here Being Shipped To NATO Nations

Shells formerly stored in lower Vancouver Island magazines for old coast defence guns were to leave Nanaimo today consigned to NATO countries.

A total of 347 tons of ammunition, including six-inch, 12-pounders and 12-hundredweight shells, will leave on Ms. Lake Pennask for Norway and Portugal as part of Canada's NATO commitment.

Coast and harbor defence units have been disbanded and guns have already been shipped away, some to NATO countries.

Officer in charge is Maj. Ross Dunbar, Vancouver, with Victoria soldiers from Work Point handling the operation.

Model UN Assembly Plan for Students

Victoria and Vancouver Island high school students will take part in a model United Nations assembly which will be held at Central Junior High School March 1 and 2.

The project will be sponsored by Business and Professional Women's Club in co-operation with the UN Association, Victoria branch.

Invitations are now going out to all Vancouver Island high schools to send two delegates each.

In announcing the sessions, Miss Verna Beck, representing the BPW, said: "We hope to obtain a nucleus for the organization from students who have already attended United Nations seminars at the University of British Columbia."

The entire assembly will be handled by the students. The project is part of a nationwide campaign to better acquaint the public with the workings of the international round-table organization.

It is planned that sessions will be an annual event, perhaps being held in other Island centres in years to follow.

President of the UN Association here, J. H. Ford, will assist with arrangements. Dean Neville Scarle of University of B.C. will officiate at the opening of the first assembly on the evening of March 1.

CITY SHIPS IN HOT WEATHER

Later in the day, boat drill was exercised between the three ships, with whalers lowered and messages passed under the watchful eye of Ontario's executive officer, Commander Donald G. Padmore, RCN, of Victoria.

On the boat deck, off-watch sailors gave a display of gymnastics and TV wrestling. A skeet-shooting competition resulted in a tie between the team of CPO Elmer Dodds and Commissioned Gunner Jack Hannam (Victoria) and PO Lorne Skinner (Ottawa) and PO Norman Crampton of Langford, near Victoria. Each team killed 10 birds out of 10 for perfect scores. Having entered the hot-weather zone, officers went into red sea rig Sunday night. From now on sailors are permitted to buy one bottle of beer a day and petty officers two.

It couldn't have come at a better time for Chaplains Horatio Todd of Victoria, Jean-Paul Belanger of Rimouski and Louis M. Lafontaine of Ottawa. Chaplains Todd and Belanger held Communion services in Ontario at 7.30 a.m. Sunday, while Father Lafontaine, a reservist and a Dominican monk, went away in a breeches buoy in mid-Pacific to minister to Roman Catholic sailors on board the frigate Stettler.

IMMACULATE

Advent of balmy weather made it possible for Ontario to hold divisions at 10.30 a.m., followed by religious services for both Protestant and Roman Catholic faiths. Capt. Robert P. Welland, DSC and bar, of Victoria, read the lesson at the Protestant service while the men in immaculate blue service dress stood with heads bared under a blue Pacific sky. As the big cruiser ambled pleasantly along, the men sang such favorite hymns as "Holy Holy" and "Eternal Father," with its well-known supplication for those in peril on the sea.

Bandmaster Bob McKay of Victoria led the ship's band of 15 pieces during the service, while Padre Todd enjoined the ship's company to sing as lively as you can, lads.

TODAY'S BEEFS

Every night just after 5 on the Trans-Canada Highway in the Langford area a yellow Ford Meteor does between 25 and 30 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone. His girl friend sits so close you'd think they were Siamese twins. This is why he is so pokey on the highway, holding up a long line of traffic. Maybe they could take the old highway where fewer people are driving, and let us get home to dinner on time.—S.M.

200 Paper Workers To Move to Burnaby

About 100 of the 300 employees here of Sidney Roofing and Paper Co. Ltd., which over the next two years will be moving to a new $7,000,000 plant in Burnaby, have said they will stay in Victoria, it was learned today.

Approximately 200 workers will move to Burnaby with the company, 75 per cent of whom are men with families.

House-hunting expenses will be paid by the company. Expenses provide up to $61 for a man and wife to take a two-day trip to the mainland seeking accommodation, or two separate trips of one day each for $45.50 per day. Married couples may make two trips of two days each.

A single man will be allowed $45.50 for a two-day trip, one trip only.

First group to go to the new plant will be mechanics, to deal with installation of machines. They leave at the beginning of July.

Employees who have expressed the wish to go to Vancouver will be alerted six months ahead as to when their particular groups shift.

Work has already started on the new plant and is expected to be completed in about two years. Movement of personnel from Victoria will be spread over this time.

The move of Sidney Roofing, brought about by high freight charges between here and the mainland, means a payroll loss of more than $1,000,000 annually to Victoria.

Soup? Coffee? What Is Held In Mammoth Cup and Saucer?

By PENNY SAVER

I have never seen such a big cup and saucer! The "saucer" is a dinner plate size, and the cup, well, it's more the size of a soup tureen, which is just what it is (I think!). In a sea blue or dusky pink pattern, the tureen and plate have a detergent and acid resistant glaze that makes them even more attractive. A novelty gift, or a practical purchase for your home, it matches a well-known and liked dinnerware pattern. The price is $7.50.

Something else in the china line, is a set of cream and sugar jugs. They are shaped like graceful swans, white and black. For bridge prizes or little gifts, these are perfect, for they're just 98 cents a pair.

There's a good buy for some one wanting to spark up the kitchen. Waxed paper and paper towel dispensers of white enamel metal are patterned with flowers. The two dispensers are really one, with the waxed paper roll on top, and the paper towel roll below. To refill, you just flip down the front hinged section. As I said, this is a very good buy at just $1.49.

Restocking your linen cupboard? Extra pillows, sheets and blankets are often needed in most homes, so here's an opportunity to gather those extra items at a low cost. Pillows can be bought for as little as $1 each, and pastel tinted flannel sheets, large size, are just $2.49 each. Camp blankets are another good buy, at $2.95 each. They measure 54 by 72 inches.

Handbags for all occasions, for all colors are on sale at a special price of $5 in one of the local stores. Every shape and material is available at this reasonable price. Natural, tan, browns, black, blue... they're all there in the many different fabrics and leathers. Clutch bags or larger style-wise bags with handles are popular. Patent leather bags are available, too, at the same wonderful price.

Slightly damaged merchandise and odd lines make up the displays in many stores now that the holiday season is past. I noticed two large tables, laden with articles at less than half price. China, wrought iron, pounded silver and glassware, copper and brassware pieces for dining room, living room... any room in the house can be bought at remarkably low prices now.

Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where I found these items.

Tea and Card Party

The Grand Court of B.C., Order of Amaranth, will hold a tea and cards in the Douglas Room of the Hudson's Bay Company on Friday, from 2 to 4 p.m. Hostesses will be Mirzaph Court No. 2 and Corporation Court No. 5. Those wishing to play cards must supply their own cards and score pads.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Exercise Is Called For in Spot Reducing

Many women who are not overweight generally have pads of fat forward, raise trunk and bend where they least want them. One of these areas is underneath the shoulder blades and arms and across the shoulders. In such specialized spot reducing you must depend on exercise.

to the left, raise trunk and bend forward, raise trunk and continue. After a while place the left arm about the back of the head and bend to the right, etc.

A fatty deposit at the back of the neck usually is correlated with a dowager's hump. This is the result of poor posture. Exercise and massage help reduce this unattractive hump. We often see this in very young women, even some teenagers have it.

cise effective. Stand tall. Bend both elbows and place the hands on the back of the head. Keep the hands in this position and push FORWARD with the hands as you push BACK with the head. Resist and hold for a few seconds. Relax and continue. This should be done day and also do special exercises. Exercise cannot do the job you wish unless you make an effort to improve your posture when standing, walking or sitting. Remind yourself of this many times each of this newspaper.

FROM NEW LICENCE REVENUE

Publicity Boost Urged by Curtis

Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau should reap the benefits when trade licence revenues are increased by the city, according to Ald. Austin Curtis.

He submitted a report to council Monday on his own findings of the two-man trade licence committee set up in December.

His recommendations were in direct opposition to those of Ald. J. Donald Smith, who chaired the committee, then quit when council would not act on his proposals.

Ald. Smith had asked revision of the licence structure and imposition of business tax immediately with new revenues being diverted to reduce the mill rate.

Await New Municipal Act

Ald. Curtis says no revision of licensing should be undertaken until the provincial government completes revision of the Municipal Act, probably at the coming session of the Legislature.

"I recommend imposing of business tax should be dropped," he added.

Ald. Curtis is chairman of the 1957 trade licence committee, which includes Ald. E. D. McEwen and Ald. Hugh Ramsay.

Ald. Smith has launched a radio and newspaper advertising campaign in a one-man crusade for public support of business tax.

Friction generated by the two opposing points of view has erupted at council level at the last two meetings, with Mayor Percy Scurrell strongly opposing Ald. Smith.

Here are the recommendations of Ald. Curtis:

1. Action on trade licence revision should await provincial

Car Mishap Kills Ex-Victorian In Washington

Word has been received here of the death, Dec. 24, of Mrs. Peter Whittall, 70, former Victorian and a frequent visitor to this city.

Mrs. Whittall was in collision with a car in Olympia, Wash., and died in St. Peter's Hospital from injuries a few hours later.

She had been working as a mail clerk in the State buildings.

Mr. and Mrs. Whittall lived in Victoria for 15 years prior to the mid-twenties. Mrs. Whittall was a member of Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Oak Bay.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Fred (Eileen) Heye, Olympia, and a grandson, Peter Whittall, Tacoma, and three sisters, Mrs. Della Graham, Vancouver, Mrs. E. Purcell, Shelton, Wash., and Mrs. A. Nolan, in Ireland.

Mrs. Whittall was predeceased by her husband and one son, Capt. Jack Whittall.

... BOGART

part finally clicked as the killer Duke Mantee in "The Petrified Forest." He won filmdom's highest honor, the Academy Award, for "The African Queen."

Although the film community was aware of the gravity of Bogart's illness, it was stunned by his death. Among the comments:

Bing Crosby—"Bogie was a fine person and a superb actor."

David Niven—"How Bogie would hate this—but God knows, it is a great personal loss to his friends and to audiences who loved him. He was a man of enormous bark and absolutely no bite."

The story of Bogart's last days is a tale of courage and devotion. Friends are convinced that the actor felt he would recover.

"Bogie had tremendous guts, will power, and optimism," an intimate said.

Added another close friend, restaurateur Michael Romanoff: "Bogie never said anything to anyone that would indicate he knew he was going to die."

Helping to keep his spirits high was his devoted wife, Lauren Bacall.

When he first fell ill, she gave up her acting career to be at his side. Despite his growlings, there was no doubt about his admiration for her. Privately, he termed her "one of the great women of this town." She was with him constantly during the last few months.

Friends marvelled at how she took his death. She didn't break down. She told the news to friends and requested photographers not to come to the house this morning so the Bogart children could get off to school as usual. They are Stephen, 8, and Leslie, 4. Miss Bacall also requested that donations be made to the American Cancer Society in lieu of flowers.

At his death he was a wealthy man who liked fine living. He owned a $160,000 whitewashed brick home, two Jaguars, three dogs (Boxers) and a $55,000 boat.

Despite his gruffness, Bogie was a warm, tender person. He regarded his wife, "Betty" Bacall, with pride and affection. He openly cried at their wedding ceremony. And once, when asked if he wanted to relive any part of his life, he said:

"Yes—the time I was courting Betty."

Garson Pledges Newsprint Hike Statement

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Garson, who administers federal anti-combines legislation, said today he would be "glad to make a statement" Wednesday on recent increases in the price of newsprint.

Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg-North Centre) asked him in the Commons whether, in view of the price increases, the restrictive trade practices commission would investigate "to determine whether there are any elements of price-fixing or restraint of trade."

The Bowater Paper Co. Monday announced a price rise of $4 a ton for newsprint to a total $134 a ton delivered in New York. The move was in line with increases by three other newsprint companies.

In the past, price increases by one newsprint company have been followed by similar action by others.

Permanent Stand-by UN Police Latest Proposal by Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson has coupled a proposal for a stand-by United Nations police force with a warning that to survive the General Assembly needs a moderate and constructive approach to its problems.

In making his proposal in the Commons Monday that Canada and other UN members keep part of their armed forces ready for UN police duty, Mr. Pearson said recent developments "have raised in our minds questions regarding" the future of the General Assembly.

Mr. Pearson also recommended that the UN Emergency Force be kept in Egypt until a Middle East political settlement is achieved and that its activities be extended to patrolling all Israel-Arab borders—with the consent of the nations involved.

On the assembly's future, he said recent developments have emphasized the gap between responsible and irresponsible UN membership. Britain and France heeded UN recommendations; Russia treated UN resolutions with contempt when they cut across its own national policy. There was a growing tendency in the assembly to force through, by sheer voting strength, resolutions "that are impractical and at times quite unreasonable."

INTEREST WELCOMED

Mr. Pearson said the "ideas behind" President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine are welcomed by Canada "as evidence of the increased interest of the United States in the Middle East in terms of both defence and economic aid for the development of the area."

But he added he should point out that the president's declaration did not deal with conflict between non-Communist states in the Middle East nor with Communist subversion brought about by non-military means.

RELATIONS WITH U.S.

Discussing briefly Canadian-American relations, he said: "I think we (the Canadian government) have made it abundantly clear that our acknowledgment of the United States as the inevitable and indispensable leader of the free world does not at all imply automatic agreement with all its policies."

"I have even been told by some of my friends below the line that we have a tendency to make this fact almost unnecessarily clear."

The Diesel Issue!

The following statement was made at Ottawa, January 11, 1957, by N. R. Crump, President, Canadian Pacific Railway:

"Service on Canadian Pacific will be restored as quickly as safe operation of the lines can be assured and in some areas trains will be operating within a matter of hours; the longer delay in other areas will be caused by snow and winter conditions but it will not be long before the public has full Canadian Pacific service once again.

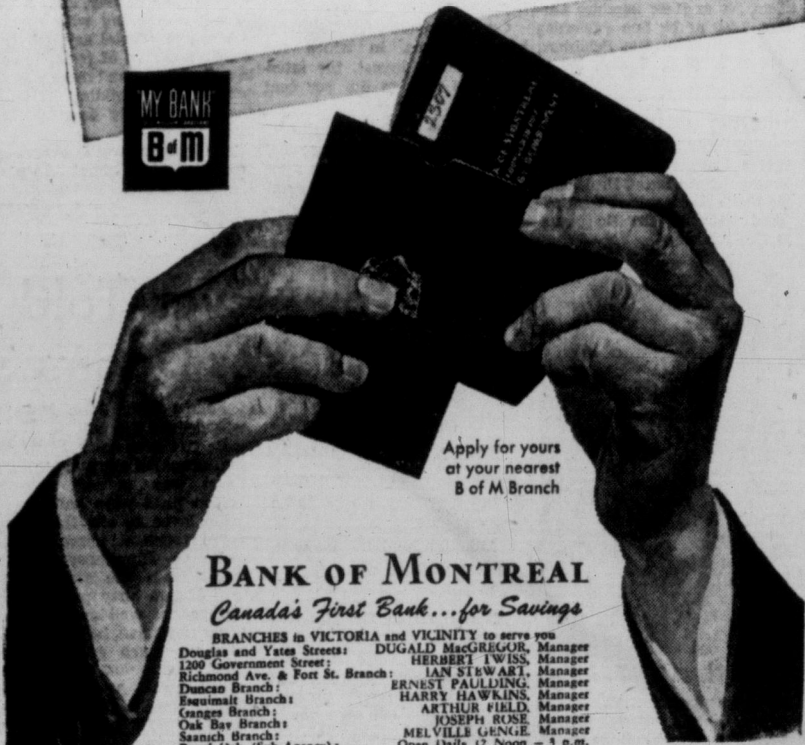

"From the outset of our differences with the Firemen's Union, Canadian Pacific has been motivated by its duty to provide safe, economical and what I consider to be truly efficient railway service. Finality of labour disputes is essential to railway transportation such as we provide; Canadian Pacific thought in order to bring that finality about any inquiry must be binding. Under the terms of the settlement reached there will be a judicial inquiry into the Diesel issue, as well as two subsidiary issues. There is no agreement that makes the decision binding but the Prime Minister and his colleagues, who have had much experience, stated in the House as well as to the parties concerned in the dispute that after the investigation which is now being arranged finality will be achieved. I have accepted this assessment.

"Thousands of Canadian Pacific customers have demonstrated in the last few days great patience and understanding. I do thank them for this and particularly for the many messages of encouragement they sent me.

"To all employees of Canadian Pacific, the strike has been a difficult period. On their return to work I know they, as in the past, will meet the challenge of providing to the public transportation service worthy of the great traditions of Canadian Pacific."

Larger Police HQ Proposed by Council

Recommendations for immediate improvement of Saanich police quarters were made to the municipal police council Monday.

"It seems to me we have allowed this situation to go on without any action taken... a shocking situation," said Coun. J. Ronald Grant.

The 19-man force is confined to three small basement rooms in Saanich municipal hall and are totally lacking in many facilities.

Coun. Grant suggested possibility of a new police station or combined police and fire station. Existing conditions have their effect on morale, he said.

Coun. George Austin said: "I agree, but it's not only the police; it's the whole issue."

The reeve agreed the whole municipal employee-administrative quarters situation is inadequate.

Mr. Austin said he would be prepared to go ahead and build on the present hall if there was no recommendation for action from the joint hall committee set up by Saanich and Victoria.

A Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee recommendation to restrict parking in municipal parks after 10:30 p.m. was referred back to police commission for further consideration.

"I think we'll have to do something about Mount Tolmie," said Reeve Arthur Ash. He mentioned complaints of night-time parkers throwing beer bottles at doors of neighboring residents.

Coun. Grant was reluctant to have parking at the top of the viewpoint restricted, largely because of tourists, but agreed there could be limited parking in the residential area. "Sleeping dogs might well be left to sleep," he commented on the fact there had been no complaints since last summer.

Application from Central Saanich to be included in Saanich's emergency radio calls system for fire and ambulance was referred to public works and fire committee.

Central Saanich's existing emergency calls system is geared through the manual telephone exchange, where an operator is always on duty and relays calls to firemen.

Next year the municipality hopes to go on the dial tele-

McKenzie Steps Out Of VLC Elections

Victoria Labor Council president Jack McKenzie will not stand for re-election at the annual meeting Wednesday.

Three others, however, have been nominated and more could be nominated at the meeting itself.

In the running are Percy Full-time, who has resigned his full-time position as secretary-treasurer; Robert Barrie, president, Canadian Chemical and Explosives Workers, Federal 123; James Island, and Victor Midgley, carpenter's international representative.

Mr. McKenzie said he will not run again because of pressure of IWA negotiations.

phone system, and linking with the Saanich emergency set-up is the only alternative to the method now used.

The municipality plans to purchase an ambulance soon.

Chief draftsman in Saanich engineering department, David Deeprose, was named probationary planning administrator and will attend a week-long course in community planning to be held soon at University of B.C.

Council agreed to meet alternate Mondays through the year, with committee meetings on Mondays not taken by council.

Coun. Leslie Passmore asked for a round-table discussion with school board of district 61 in order to obtain answers to inquiries concerning the $5,600,000 school building by-law defeated at December elections.

He said many ratepayers have asked about the by-law, which will be presented in referendum again, and specific answers are not known to most councillors.

Frank L. Beebe, 4146 Grange, applying on behalf of a group interested in starting a zoological park in Saanich, will be invited to meet with the parks committee to present tentative plans.

Continued from Page 1 was looking for and asked several times who the stranger was. The reply each time was "Martin."

POINTED SKYWARDS
Franks asked him finally whether he was the RCMP and Martin replied, pointing skywards: "I bailed out."

Led by the two loggers, the men made their way down the mountain and Martin was brought to hospital. Hospital authorities said his burns are not serious and will probably leave no scars.

PO. McCormack, 21-year-old first officer with Trans-Canada Air Lines, plucked by helicopter from the rugged bush, gave first thought to his family.

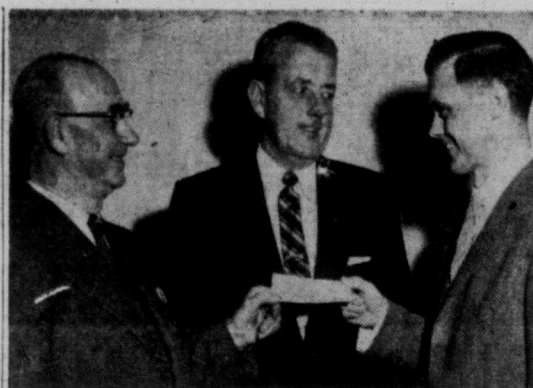

"Notify my relatives; do they know?" he muttered to the crew of the helicopter after being picked up. Then he closed his eyes. He spoke once more during the trip from Squamish to Vancouver, where he was placed in hospital, and that was to thank his rescuers.

He was being treated today for severe burns to his hands and face and for exposure. His eyes were almost swollen shut.

After a circling aircraft found McCormack lying, apparently unconscious, in the snow beside a fire, two para-rescue men were dropped in. But they found him in the snow and had to be pulled back again by a helicopter lowering a nylon cable.

The helicopter returned to Squamish and flew out again with the two para-rescue men, this time equipped with snowshoes. They were lowered onto a lake about a half-mile from McCormack.

One climbed the mountainside and half carried McCormack down to the lake where he was picked-up by the hovering helicopter.

PROCEEDS FROM THANKSGIVING SEAL CAMPAIGN to raise money for cerebral palsy children, a cheque for $4,109.41 was turned over Monday to J. W. Mainguy, right, president of the Cerebral Palsy Association of Lower Vancouver Island. ## Dulles Warns Again Ike Plan Vital to Peace

WASHINGTON (CP)—State Secretary Dulles said today that if congress turns down President Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine events may get out of hand with "a very great likelihood" U.S. troops may have to fight there.

He also said the U.S. could not go into partnership with Britain and France in any Middle East plan.

"I cannot think of anything that would more surely turn the area over to international communism than to go in there hand in hand" with Britain and France, Dulles said.

Dulles was asked at the second day of Senate committee hearings what countries the U.S. would call on for help if the contemplated Eisenhower doctrine got the Americans into war.

Dulles replied that in case of war the U.S. expected to get help from the 42 nations with whom it has collective security agreements. Britain and France would come under NATO.

WIDOW

Continued from Page 1 After the hearing, expected to last through the week, the court of five magistrates will decide whether Adams should stand trial before a judge and jury.

The nurse, first witness at today's session, was Miss Caroline Randall, who watched by the bedside as Mrs. Morrell died. She testified that Dr. Adams came to Mrs. Morrell's house on Nov. 12, 1950—the night before she died—and brought a 5 c.c. syringe which he filled and asked the nurse to inject.

"Is that the normal type of syringe to use?" assistant crown counsel Malcolm Morris asked the nurse.

"No," she replied. "It was bigger. The normal was a 1 or 2 c.c. syringe."

The nurse said she did not know what the injection was but gave it to Mrs. Morrell on the doctor's orders, then followed it up three hours later with a similar injection prepared by Adams.

Mrs. Morrell developed spasms but, the nurse testified, "she gradually became quiet and had a peaceful end. She just passed away quietly."

Two other nurses testified that they didn't know what the injections were and that the doctor wouldn't tell them.

Dr. Adams barely looked up from behind his thick-lensed glasses as one nurse after the other testified for the crown.

Jail Terms Given Two Men Captured By Armed Loggers

PORT ALBERNI—Albert John Alexander and Wilfred Ernest Coull, who were held at gunpoint Sunday at Sarita River pending arrival of RCMP for official arrest, today were sentenced in police court here.

They pleaded guilty to several charges of theft, and were sentenced by Magistrate Thomas Patterson to terms totalling two and one-half years for Alexander, and two years for Coull.

IRA Raiders Jailed

DUBLIN (Reuters)—Fourteen men were sentenced to six months each Monday for their part in IRA cross-border raids against British-held Northern Ireland last month.

EVERYBODY'S DOING IT!

"Say Mr. Jones, that's the Star Weekly you have on the back seat isn't it?"

"Yes it is Jim—why?"

"Well, last night my family was working on those picture puzzles in the Star Weekly $50,000 'Know Canada' contest and I got pretty interested. That $10,000 first prize looks really BIG to me. You know what I mean?"

"Yes I do Jim, as a matter of fact I'm out right now to get several more copies of the Star Weekly—we're making it a family project."

"Well with 1,568 prizes there's plenty of chance to win. Good luck to you sir."

"Good luck to us both Jim."

Dance Caller's Funeral Set for Wednesday

Prayers will be said in Chaplin's Funeral Chapel tonight at 7 for John Mooney, 42, of 4081 Cedar Hill Road.

One of the Island's most gifted square dance callers, Mr. Mooney died suddenly Saturday.

He first began calling for square dancing in 1951 and has conducted a beginners' class each year. He also helped organize the B.C. Teachers and Callers' Association.

Among his projects was the Western Square Dance Association, which will recommend a posthumous award of the Silver Spur for his services to square dancing on Vancouver Island.

An American magazine makes the award to people who "help bring the true spirit of square dancing to their fellow men."

Mr. Mooney is survived by his wife, Alice; a son, Stephen, 16; a daughter, Cathie, 10, and his mother, Mrs. Mary Mooney, of Winnipeg.

Funeral services will be conducted at St. Andrew's Cathedral Wednesday at 10 a.m., and interment will follow at Royal Oak Cemetery.

Covered Horse Ring Planned At Thetis by Colwood Riders

Approval from the city will be sought by Colwood Trail Riders' Club for permission to construct a covered ring for horse shows at Thetis Lake Park.

Wes Goddard, president, told the club's annual meeting Monday that construction of the covered ring would start this summer if council approved.

City engineer J. C. Garnett, as a water commissioner, has yet to approve the leasing of the land on the Thetis Lake watershed before the matter is submitted to council for approval.

The club has not selected a definite site for the project but it has been suggested that the covered ring be located beyond the rifle range.

Mr. Goddard said the covered ring would permit the club to have horse shows all year round and give the members something to do during the winter months.

He said the size of the covered ring has yet to be determined.

"It will be available to outside
